The Academic Advisement Center
GOALS OF TODAY’S SESSION...

Introduce you to John Jay’s Academic Advisement Center and the resources we offer.

Provide you with an overview of academic requirements

Develop a class schedule for the FALL 2014 semester
Professional advisors and peer advisors (John Jay students) serve as partners in your education. You get the benefit of our combined perspective and experience as we help you shape the education you want.

Advisors will help you not only to do some great academic planning, but encourage you to think about how all of your experiences fit together, and what they say about you.

Advising is a conversation that keeps happening and deepens over time.

NEW! TRANSFER SEMINARS
DESIGNED TO PROMOTE THE SUCCESS OF TRANSFER STUDENTS
First-semester transfers | By permission only

Transfer seminars are special sections of the 300-level Justice Core courses that all transfer students are required to take. These special seminars allow first-semester transfer students to advance their academic goals and learn about major resources at the same time. Library visits, special on-campus events, meeting with guest speakers, and other offerings are part of the course curriculum. These seminars are taught by experienced faculty, recognized experts in their fields. Each seminar is assigned a peer mentor, who provides ongoing support and serves as a connection to the larger community. This tight integration of academic and co-curricular activities ensures a smooth and effective transition.

THE LATINA/O EXPERIENCE OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE
Professor JOSÉ LUIS MORÍN
LLS 325-01 | TH 12:15–1:30 PM | Registration Code 67102
LLS 325-02 | TH 2:30–4:00 PM | Registration Code 66688

This course analyzes the criminal justice system and its impact on the lives and communities of Latinas/os and other groups in the United States. Particular emphasis is placed on Latina/o human and civil rights and the role that race, ethnicity, gender, and class play in the criminal justice system. Interdisciplinary readings and class discussions center on issues such as the overrepresentation of Latinas/os and racial minorities in the criminal justice system; law and police-community relations; racial profiling; stop and frisk policies; immigration status; detention and deportation; Latina/o/youth, media representations; gangs, and access to education and employment and the school-to-prison pipeline.

WARLORDS, REBELS, AND DICTATORS: VIOLENCE AND ITS EFFECT ON LAW AND JUSTICE IN AFRICA
Professor CHARLOTTE WALKER-SAID
AFR 320-50 | MW 8:00–9:15 PM | Registration Code 80017
AFR 320-51 | MW 10:00–11:15 PM | Registration Code 80018

This course explores the history and the politics of the current wars, massacres, uprisings, terrorist attacks, and genocides taking place in Africa today. It will examine how these conflicts are rooted in the tumultuous decades after independence in Africa, when warlords, rebels, and dictators fought for dominance in a continent that was newly freed from European rule. It will include different case studies both contemporary and historical, investigating the causes and traditions, politics, legal reforms, and political responses of African populations to justice issues, focusing in depth on the significance of the post-colonial period.

Prior to joining the faculty at John Jay College, I served as an advocate on indigenous Hawaiian rights issues and was a visiting professor at the Center for Hawaiian Studies, University of Hawai’i at Mānoa, where I taught courses on international law and the rights of Indigenous People. My areas of specialization include domestic and international criminal justice, civil rights and international human rights, race and ethnicity in the United States, Latina/o studies, and U.S.-Latin America relations. My experience in the fields of civil rights and international human rights includes serving as an attorney with the Puerto Rican Legal Defense and Education Fund and the Center for Constitutional Rights. I hold a baccalauréat degree in political science from Columbia University and a Juris Doctor degree from New York University School of Law.

I am a historian of modern Africa and Assistant Professor of African Studies at John Jay College of Criminal Justice, City University of New York. I received my BA from Princeton University in 2009, and completed my PhD in History at Yale University in 2017. Since 2016, I have taught history, African studies, and human rights at Harvard University, the University of Chicago, and Webster University, where I was recently appointed the Theodore Lents Fellow in Human Rights and Humanitarian Studies. My research investigates three main issues: the relationships of Africans to local and religious and political traditions, the role of human rights in political and social movements, and the articulation of human rights claims as part of social, cultural, and sexual struggles of the modern age.
