J. Elizabeth Clark, Professor of English at LaGuardia Community College, teaches composition, literature, children’s literature, and the capstone course in the Liberal Arts. Her scholarly interests include 20th century American poetry, the poetry of HIV/AIDS, children’s literature, teaching with technology, ePortfolio and digital rhetoric.

She has been part of LaGuardia’s dynamic ePortfolio team since 2002, serving on the original research team and as the Interim ePortfolio Director in 2006. She works closely with the Center for Teaching and Learning at LaGuardia. She is currently leading two year-long professional development seminars, one on capstone courses & integrative learning and one on intentional digital design.

RSVP: www.jjay.cuny.edu/for-faculty

Coffee and cookies will be served

Thursday*, October 6 | L.61 NB | 1:40 – 2:55 PM

*Classes follow a Mon. schedule