

OFFICE FOR STUDENT RESEARCH AND CREATIVITY

Apply Now: Outstanding Scholarly Mentor Award

In 2022, the OSRC will award (2) Outstanding Scholarly Mentoring Awards to recognize faculty members who have provided exceptional student mentoring by engaging undergraduates in scholarly research or creative work. The awards will be distributed as follows: One award will be given to a faculty from the Psychology or Sciences disciplines; and one award will be given to a faculty member from other academic divisions.

(2) Awards are given in the amount of $1,500

2021 Award Winner:

Jason Rauceo, *Molecular Biology

My “mentoring practice” is rooted in a simple code: selflessly foster the professional and personal development of the mentee. This endeavor extends far beyond conveying scholarly dogma; rather a mentor should be a role model, motivator, advisor, and friend.
