

November 29, 2016

Dear Colleagues:

A national search for the next president of John Jay College of Criminal Justice of The City University of New York has begun. The next leader will build upon the legacy of Jeremy Travis, John Jay's outstanding president for the past thirteen years.

Founded in 1964, John Jay College has evolved into a preeminent international leader in educating for justice in its many dimensions. Through its rich liberal arts and professional curriculum the college prepares students to serve the public interest as ethical leaders and engaged citizens. John Jay's faculty include Pulitzer Prize-winners and widely honored scholars and experts in a variety of academic fields, with credentials from the world's top universities.

The College recently completed its first capital campaign for $50 million, providing important new support to students and academic programs. In 2014 it launched John Jay Online to expand the unique offerings beyond its traditional students and greatly increase its impact on issues of justice globally.

The John Jay Presidential Search committee members are:

Charles Shorter, Trustee - Committee Chair

Wellington Chen, Trustee

Jill O'Donnell-Tormey, Trustee

Sandra Wilkin, Trustee

Michelle Anderson, President, Brooklyn College/CUNY

Diane Call, President, Queensborough Community College/CUNY

Ned Benton, Professor, Public Management and Chair of the Faculty Senate, John Jay College

Karen Kaplowitz, Professor, English, John Jay College

Allison Pease, Professor, English, John Jay College

Jim McCann, alumni representative

Grace Agalo-Os, undergraduate student representative

Gabriele Trupp, graduate student representative

The committee will be assisted by the search firm Storbeck Pimentel.

We look forward to recruiting an exceptional leader who will continue to move John Jay College of Criminal Justice to even greater success.

James B. Milliken
Chancellor

William C. Thompson, Jr.
Chairperson, Board of Trustees