Dual Degree MPA/JD Program in Law and Public Accountability

The MPA/JD Dual Degree Program capitalizes on CUNY Law School's nationally renowned expertise in Public Service and Public Interest Law with John Jay College's unique and highly recognized MPA program dealing with investigation of waste fraud and abuse in public and publicly regulated services. The dual program will prepare lawyers who will be uniquely trained to for inspection and oversight functions, as practitioners, policy makers and legal scholars.

The curriculum is composed of the existing required and elective courses for the MPA and for the JD. Twelve CUNY Law School credits are credited towards both the JD and the MPA Program. Likewise 12 MPA credits from the JJCCJ MPA in Inspection and Oversight program are credited also to the CUNY Law School JD program. Consequently, due to the 24 transfer credits applied in the dual degree program, the total number of credits taken will be 106 rather than 130, resulting in graduation for full-time students in four years instead of five. Students must be admitted to both the MPA and the JD programs, so early advising and program applications are recommended.
