The Police Studies Baccalaureate Degree provides a comprehensive understanding of the role the police profession plays in the American Criminal Justice system. It is a dynamic major that responds to issues of public concerns, like selective enforcement and diversity, innovations and changes in technology, crime prevention as well as law enforcement leadership and management.

The Police Studies Major focuses on the police as an institution and offers concentrations in Police Administration, Management and Operations; Crime Analysis and Intelligence; and Investigative Science. The Bachelor in Police Science program will allow students to enter the workplace with the theoretical and applied knowledge of the police profession. Our faculty members are current and former law enforcement practitioners whose academic credentials afford students some unique insights into the police profession.

While some Police Studies majors will enter the workplace directly, others who plan to attend graduate school will receive a solid academic foundation for future studies.

WHAT WILL YOU LEARN IN THIS MAJOR?

The Police Studies Baccalaureate Degree provides a comprehensive understanding of the role the police profession plays in the American Criminal Justice system. It is a dynamic major that responds to issues of public concerns, like selective enforcement and diversity, innovations and changes in technology, crime prevention as well as law enforcement leadership and management.

The Police Studies Major focuses on the police as an institution and offers concentrations in Police Administration, Management and Operations; Crime Analysis and Intelligence; and Investigative Science. The Bachelor in Police Science program will allow students to enter the workplace with the theoretical and applied knowledge of the police profession. Our faculty members are current and former law enforcement practitioners whose academic credentials afford students some unique insights into the police profession.

While some Police Studies majors will enter the workplace directly, others who plan to attend graduate school will receive a solid academic foundation for future studies.

IN THIS MAJOR YOU WILL

Use and critically evaluate a variety of practical and theoretical approaches relevant to policing.

Use and critically evaluate a variety of practical/hands-on/research approaches relevant to policing.

Analyze and assess the quality of operations and deployment strategies utilized by police departments.

Integrate policing theory, research and policy in written reports and presentations.

Explain and discuss the importance of diversity, and ethical, discretionary decision-making and statutory requirements that law enforcement professionals encounter as community caretakers and providers of public safety.

FIRST COURSES IN THE MAJOR

PSC 101: Introduction to Law Enforcement

PSC 202: Police Organization and Administration

The foundation course for this major is CJBS 101: Introduction to the American Criminal Justice System.

“The Police Studies major has provided me with a pragmatic sense of what policing in America actually encompasses. Courses associated with this major exhibit how police departments operate, from the management and financial aspect to patrol and criminal investigations. It serves as a terrific foundation for understanding police culture and has driven me to continue pursuing a career in law enforcement.”

— William Morris, Police Studies Major
WHAT CRITICAL THINKING SKILLS WILL YOU DEVELOP IN THIS MAJOR?

- Summarize, analyze, compare, evaluate, interpret and synthesize ideas about the police and the social forces they face.
- Present ideas verbally and in writing; interpret data and shape information into specific points and arguments as well as debate critical issues in policing.
- Develop a position on a topic and defend that position based on reason and logic to solve problems, advocate for change, or preserve the status quo.

WHAT MINOR MIGHT BE A GOOD COMPLEMENT TO THIS MAJOR?

- Political Science
- Sociology
- Corrections
- Dispute Resolution
- Computer Science

For more information about minors, go to: www.jjay.cuny.edu/minors

WHAT OPPORTUNITIES WILL THIS MAJOR OFFER YOU?

- Research and publishing with professors
- Data analysis with professors
- Comprehensive literature reviews
- Internships

THIS MAJOR CAN BE A GREAT FOUNDATION FOR A WIDE RANGE OF JOBS, BUT SOME POSSIBILITIES TO CONSIDER ARE:

- Law enforcement, government and public sector: Local, county, state and federal law enforcement agencies
- Security field: Security and loss prevention
- Private investigations
- Non-profit research: The National Policing Institute, Police Executive Research Forum, Vera Institute, Urban Institute
- Graduate school: Law school; Master and doctoral program

Students with an interest in computers are encouraged to develop some knowledge in that area, since computers are used routinely to commit many forms of crime. Computer-savvy professionals are in high demand, including city, state, and federal law enforcement agencies. Also, students with an interest in languages should develop their ability to read, write, and speak a second language. Crime is not isolated to one or two ethnicities. It is broad-based and involves ethnicities throughout the world.

For more detailed information about careers, contact:
Center for Career & Professional Development (New Building, L.72.00)
Phone: 212-237-8754
Email: careers@jjay.cuny.edu
Website: www.jjay.cuny.edu/center-career-professional-development

2022-2023