

Math Gen Ed Enrollment Options SP 2021

Note: Advisors and students can view student milestones in the CUNY First Student Center

Student Circumstance	STEM Major (Economics, Forensic Science, Cell & Molecular Biology, Toxicology, Computer Science and Information Security and Applied Mathematics) Most STEM Majors complete the 105~141~241 sequence.	Non-STEM Major (All other Majors) Most non-STEM Majors will now complete MAT 108 or MAT 106 as the first course in their gen ed math sequence.
I took MAT 105 this fall did not pass it	You should retake math 105 this winter or spring. Waiting to retake this class will delay progress in your major.	You can opt to take a NC for math 105. In the spring, you can bypass mat 105 and enroll in mat 108 to satisfy your math gen ed requirement instead Please note: You may retake math 105 if you desire but depending on what your major is, you may not need to. Please consult with an advisor.
I did not enroll in MAT 105 this fall but have a MAT 105 placement	You should enroll in math 105 this winter or spring.	If you have a math 105 AND 108 placement, you can enroll in 108 in the spring to satisfy your math gen ed requirement. If you do not have a 108 placement but believe you should be able to take the course, advisors can email wferdinand@jjay.cuny.edu to obtain a placement
I did not enroll in math this fall, have a placement but also came to JJAY with Statistics credits	You need to complete the math gen ed requirement for the STEM major sequence.	You do not need to enroll in a math class at John Jay in order to satisfy your general education requirement. Consult with your advisor to determine if you need an additional math course for your major.
I do not have a milestone to help me register in a math class I need/want to take	Advisors/staff can contact Wynne at wferdinand@jjay.cuny.edu . I can process most math placements within a couple hours of receiving a weekday email. I will not be checking email 12/23–12/27 and 12/30-1/3/21.
