A motion was made to adopt the Institutional Learning Goals with the following changes:

- Under Core Values (on page 22), number two (2) is changed to Global Citizenship.
- Under Global Citizenship (on page 27), add the word linguistic.
  - Global citizenship requires the critical analysis of and an engagement with complex, interdependent global systems and legacies (such as natural, physical, social, cultural, linguistic, economic, and political) and their implications for people's lives and the earth's sustainability. To become global citizens, students should 1) become informed, openminded, and responsible people who are attentive to diversity across the spectrum of differences, 2) seek to understand how their actions affect both local and global communities, and 3) address the world's most pressing and enduring issues collaboratively and equitably.

Department of Counseling and Human Services

Proposal to create Dual Admission Programs with BMCC and LaGuardia CC in Human Services and Community Justice from the existing John Jay B.S. and Community College A.S in Human Services programs.

March 12, 2018

Effective date: Fall 2019

Background and Process:

The Department Chair, the Department Curriculum Committee and Major Subcommittee of the Department of Human Services and Counseling have approved this proposal to create dual admission programs by articulating the existing B.S. in Human Services and Community Justice with the A.S. in Human Services at each community college.

Since this dual admission program is being created from existing registered programs, a full degree proposal is not required by CUNY or NYSED.

However, since all dual admission programs are created through governance at both the 2-year and the 4-year institutions, John Jay College and each community college will bring this proposal through governance.

Program Overview

In contemporary life, where issues of social, racial, and economic justice shape the challenges encountered by diverse and underserved communities, there continues to be an emerging need for competent and compassionate human services professionals. With this purpose the Human Services and Community Justice program disseminates advanced specialized training needed for “respecting the dignity and welfare of all people; promoting self-determination; honoring cultural diversity; advocating for justice; and acting with integrity, honesty, genuineness and objectivity” (NOHS, 2015).¹

For example, individuals involved in the criminal justice system are among some of our most vulnerable citizens, imprisoned unjustly, often struggling with poverty, addiction, mental illness, discrimination, and service systems that create barriers to psychosocial-educational-medical and legal resources. Society often leaves the criminal justice system to deal with the impact of its structural inequities that impact individuals being trapped in poverty, having unmet behavioral health needs, feeling isolation, despair, and hopelessness, and making decisions that impact personal and public wellbeing. These outcomes translate into tremendous costs for individuals and extraordinary socio-economic impacts for communities. Communities unequipped to support the needs of the most vulnerable will likely experience higher crime rates, unemployment, traumatization, social unrest, social injustice, higher rates of recidivism of offenders, and fail to recognize and build on community strengths.

HSCJ graduates will be uniquely positioned and effectively trained to partner and build coalitions with an array of agencies including: law enforcement, courts, and correctional, criminal justice and social service providers. Providing direct and indirect services, graduates will exercise their commitment to justice by promoting fairness, equity and accountability to citizens encountering the criminal justice system; they will develop and provide restorative services for offenders who have been incarcerated or those in lieu of jail time mandated to social service programs; they will work with undocumented immigrants seeking paths to citizenship to insure access to basic rights and with immigration and customs enforcement authorities to insure that refugees/immigrants housed in detention centers are treated humanely; they will work to assist victims of crime or violence in new, expanded and innovative ways; address racial and ethnic disproportionality in the child welfare and other social systems; advocate for youth justice with juvenile offenders remanded by the courts; work with law enforcement professionals advocating for the rights of those unjustly arrested and/or mistreated; help to repair the harm of abusive parents, heal multigenerational trauma, and protect the elderly at risk for neglect and abuse. These are just some of the opportunities students will have to eliminate structural inequities, promote community restoration and perform functions related to the equitable and accountable care and treatment of individuals, families, and communities.

To these ends, the Human Services and Community Justice Major (HSCJ) provides a rigorous, coherent and focused program to help students develop a better understanding of the challenges facing diverse and underserved populations in society. Through its multidisciplinary course work, students’ progress through a series of required core courses designed to prepare them to become self-reflective, competent and compassionate practitioners/counselors, change agents, advocates, and community leaders. Acquiring strong interpersonal skills, ethical and cultural competencies, and professional helping proficiencies essential for human services practice are strongly emphasized. Through additional elective course work, students develop a rich appreciation for diverse human systems and interventions, community justice and advocacy, policy and administration.

The Human Services and Community Justice major provides the academic and experiential background for students seeking a career working with individuals in organizations, social welfare agencies, nonprofit and private sectors, especially those that intersect with our legal and criminal justice systems. Human Services careers, which include clusters of occupations found within the described category of "community and social service employment", are expected to be "very favorable" as the number of human service workers are projected to grow “faster than average” for all occupations through 2024 (Bureau of Labor Statistics, 2015). Examples of occupational titles include: case managers, juvenile and domestic violence counselors, probation officers, community organizers, family and child advocates, parole officers, and counselors.

The rationale for this anticipated job growth is attributed to the mounting and intensifying need for services to help address problems related to: mental illness, poverty, developmental disabilities, substance abuse, domestic violence, and a host of other psycho-social-economic issues. The escalating need for childcare, elder home care and senior citizen services will further bolster the overall projected job growth. Similarly, overcrowding, budgeting constraints, and the questionable effectiveness of programs in prisons, are increasing the creation of alternatives to incarceration programs and a need for community based social services programs. There is also a documented trend of deinstitutionalization leaving many who are chronically ill, especially those adjudicated in the criminal justice system, without necessities or resources and in desperate need of community support. Given these needs for services, New York, home to the nation’s largest work force, remains an excellent venue for employment in Human Services.

Within these clusters of occupations, the New York State Department of Labor forecasts an average growth rate of 15% in the period between 2010 and 2024 (NYS Department of Labor, 2016). Human Services is a newly emerging discipline, and efforts to ensure that individuals and communities receive competent care will require the professionalizing of this field. As the need to provide an array of services to the most racially, socially and economically underserved continues to rise, the demand for trained and certified human services professionals is expected to significantly increase. Human Services degree programs that meet requisite academic requirements to become nationally accredited will be in high demand. The anticipated accreditation of our HSCJ major will enhance the program’s reputation and desirability and provide students the opportunity to sit for the Human Services Board Certified Professional exam (HS-BCP, 2016) in their senior year, thus distinguishing themselves for today’s competitive job market.

Building on the successful model of the CUNY Justice Academy (CJA), John Jay College and several CUNY Community Colleges propose a dual admission program (A.S./B.S.) in Human Services and Community Justice to increase the rate of transfer from the associate degree to the bachelor’s degree and help meet the demand for qualified professionals in this career field. This will also establish a nice enrollment pipeline for our new major.

The CUNY Justice Academy is an educational partnership connecting John Jay College of Criminal Justice to CUNY’s community colleges. The CUNY Justice Academy currently provides academic pathways leading from associate degree study to a bachelor’s degree and ultimately to exciting careers in the fields of Criminal Justice, Forensic Science, Fraud Examination and Financial Forensics, and Computer Science and Information Security. Data shows that CUNY Justice Academy programs have led to an unprecedented transfer rate of associate degree students from the participating community colleges to John Jay College, when compared to the rate of non-CUNY Justice Academy transfers. The programs of the CUNY Justice Academy have also shown a higher rate of baccalaureate degree attainment. And, in general, students who earn associate degrees also succeed in baccalaureate degree attainment at a higher rate than students without the degree. We anticipate that students who enroll in the proposed dual admission programs in Human Services and Community Justice will benefit similarly.

The HSCJ program relies on faculty who are licensed in Mental Health, Social Work, Psychology, and from departments such as Africana Studies, Anthropology, Counseling, Latin American and Latino/a Studies, Psychology, SEEK, and Sociology to provide excellence in multidisciplinary education, training and supervision. The HSCJ major is ideally suited for students planning to attend graduate school in the fields of social work, counseling, and applied psychology, where job opportunities are increasing due to the changing demographics of society.

The program offers a comprehensive year-long field experience and culminates in a senior seminar where students present a summative capstone portfolio documenting the integration of theory and praxis. The regular John Jay Human Services and Community Justice major includes 350 hours of field experience, divided between the Required Core courses (50 hours) and the two Field Experience subcategories (150 hours each). In order to reach the same number of field experience hours, the dual admission programs recognize field experience hours spent in internships in the community colleges, and require students to take additional field experience courses at John Jay (as indicated in the curriculum outlines below) to reach at least 350 total field experience hours. Through the use of field education experiences, and portfolio development that focus on community-based approaches to justice in action, students in the major will be trained and better equipped to research, evaluate and respond in thoughtful and creative ways to the complexity of community-based demands for service, advocacy, and policy development and analysis.

Assessment:

As a dual admission program formed from existing programs, the proposed dual admission program will be subject to each college’s established and ongoing assessment processes for programs, courses, students, and instructors, including academic program...
review, learning outcomes assessment, and faculty evaluations.

In addition, student performance, persistence, and completion in the dual admission program will be tracked and addressed to facilitate continuous improvement by relevant staff at each participating college, including faculty, program coordinators and liaisons, and the HSCJ major curriculum subcommittee. A Program Advisory Committee will ensure adherence to standards and support continual response to changing policies and trends in the human services field and greater public service community. The effectiveness of the program’s response to student and community needs will be measured regularly through student learning outcomes assessment according to a regular plan, including implementation of improvements to respond to assessment results.

New Minor Proposal Form*

1. Department(s) proposing this minor: Department of Security, Fire, and Emergency Management

2. Name of minor: Homeland Security

3. Credits required (minors must consist of 18-21 credits): 18 credits

4. Description of minor as it will appear in the Undergraduate Bulletin (write in full sentences):

Homeland security professionals deal with a wide variety human-made and natural disasters. Using a multidisciplinary lens, the Homeland Security minor introduces students to the field of homeland security, looking in particular at essential homeland security functions (e.g., intelligence and counterintelligence activities) and objectives (e.g., securing the nation’s borders), threats to homeland security (e.g., terrorism and human trafficking), assessment of the risk of these threats, the social, political, ethical, and legal implications of homeland security, and the ways to mitigate, respond to, prepare for, and recover from homeland security threats. The courses in this minor critically evaluate discourses, narratives, and perspectives on homeland security, terrorism, counterterrorism, and antiterrorism, and intelligence, and promote evidence-based analyses of “what works” and “what does not work” in these fields. Security managers, security operators, emergency management professionals, intelligence agents, private security professionals, law enforcement officers, policymakers, and those in other related fields need to be familiar with homeland security in order to maintain currency in the field and be more marketable employees. Anyone interested in learning about homeland security and/or working in the homeland security job market that has exponentially expanded since the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001, should take this minor.

5. Statement of learning outcomes (what knowledge and/or skills should all students have acquired upon completion of the minor?):

Upon the completion of the minor, students will be able to:

1) Identify, evaluate, and present information about homeland security through writing assignments, practical exercises, exams, research papers, and oral presentations

2) Identify and assess homeland security threats and risks

3) Identify the functions and objectives of the Department of Homeland Security, and

Approved by UCASC, Oct 19, to College Council, Nov 12, 2018
explain the role of intelligence, counterintelligence, counterterrorism, and antiterrorism in homeland security

4) Critically evaluate homeland security policies and practices from multiple theoretical perspectives

5) Propose effective measures to counter and combat homeland security threats and the manner in which their efficacy can be assessed

6. Rationale/justification for the minor (why is this minor important to include in the College's curriculum? what benefits do students derive from taking this minor?):

   Globalization has challenged the security and stability of nations by enabling human-made threats to traverse borders through the rapid and expansive movement of people, property, goods, money and information across borders. These threats to the security and stability of nations added impetus to the creation of government agencies tasked with protecting the homeland. Homeland security is an umbrella term used to describe the measures taken by nations to secure their territories and borders.

   The job market for public and private sector employees with homeland security-related backgrounds in border security, transportation security, counterterrorism, antiterrorism, intelligence, and cybersecurity has exponentially expanded since the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001.¹

   An essential function of homeland security is protecting the nation’s critical infrastructure sectors (i.e., food and agriculture, chemical, critical manufacturing, commercial, communications, dams, defense, emergency services, energy, financial, government, healthcare, informational technology, nuclear, transportation, water and wastewater), which are primarily owned and operated by the private sector. Given the primary role of the private sector in critical infrastructure protection, it is imperative that professionals seeking employment in these sectors are well-versed in homeland security policies and procedures. If John Jay wishes to remain at the cutting edge of security, it must be more attentive to homeland security issues which are integral to public and private security professions.

7. List of courses constituting the minor with required pre-requisites (Indicate the core requirements, capstone course, etc):

   Please note: New courses developed for minors must be approved prior to (or concurrent with) the submission of the proposal for the minor. New courses will be subject to the usual approval process.

   To receive a minor in Homeland Security, students must complete 18 credits by taking all three of the required security courses and choosing three elective courses

Approved by UCASC, Oct 19, to College Council, Nov 12, 2018
Required Courses (9 cr.)
SEC 1XX Introduction to U.S. Homeland Security
SEC 220 Terrorism, Security and Emergency Management
SEC 333 Intelligence and Counterintelligence – Public and Private Practices

Elective Courses (9 cr.)
Choose three
SEC270/CSCI 270 Security of Computers and their Data
SEC 310 Emergency Planning
SEC 323 Private Security and Homeland Defense
SEC 327 Risk and Vulnerability Analysis
SEC 329 Security, Risk and Technology

Please note: Students cannot earn both the B.S. in Security Management and the minor in Homeland Security due to the similarities of the fields and the amount of course overlap.

The required courses are new (and separate course proposals have been submitted).

New course names, descriptions and rationale:

1) SEC 1XX Introduction to U.S. Homeland Security
No prerequisite

Description: With the majority of U.S. key critical infrastructures privately owned or operated, the private security sector plays a prominent, albeit often overlooked, role in homeland security. This course provides an overview of U.S. homeland security, threats to homeland security, and the role of private security in homeland security. It also examines the Department of Homeland Security and its mission, objectives, structure, responsibilities, and operations, and the challenges it faces. Special attention will be paid to critical infrastructure protection in the United States.

Rationale for Course: After the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001, homeland security came to forefront of public and private sector concerns. John Jay College of Criminal Justice does not have homeland security courses. An undergraduate course introducing the field of homeland security to students at John Jay College of Criminal Justice is long overdue. Given that both public and private security sectors are responsible for homeland security, students without this basic knowledge would be at a disadvantage at the time of hire.

2) SEC 220 Terrorism, Security and Emergency Management
Prerequisite: SEC 1XX Introduction to U.S. Homeland Security

Description: Using a multidisciplinary lens, this course critically evaluates discourses, narratives, and perspectives on terrorism, counterterrorism, and antiterrorism, and promotes evidence-based analyses of “what works” and “what does not work” in countering and combating terrorism. In this course, students differentiate between different forms of terrorism by examining the structure, goals, tactics, targets and ideologies of international and domestic terrorists, and carefully consider existing national and international antiterrorism and counterterrorism measures. Special attention is paid to the role of private security in counterterrorism and antiterrorism, and the obstacles these professionals encounter in identifying terrorists and responding to, preparing for, and mitigating terrorism.

Rationale for Course Level: A course covering terrorism, antiterrorism and counterterrorism in this major have been lacking since the inception of this program. Knowledge of these threats and measures are integral to the majority of private and public security related positions. Students without the basic knowledge of terrorism, antiterrorism, and counterterrorism would be at a disadvantage at the time of hire.

3) SEC 333 Intelligence and Counterintelligence – Private and Public Practices
Prerequisites: ENG 101
- SEC 1XX Introduction to U.S. Homeland Security
- SEC 220 Terrorism, Security, and Emergency Management

Description: Intelligence is a product of the gathering, processing, assimilating, examining, evaluating, and interpreting information from open-source and/or confidential methods and sources. Intelligence is fundamental to the public and private security sectors. This course covers intelligence collection, analysis, and dissemination tactics from human, technical and open sources and the laws and policies that govern these tactics. This course further explores the intelligence community in the U.S. and intelligence agencies abroad, looking in particular at their structure, agencies, organizational cultures, and practices, and the challenges that the intelligence community faces. Special attention will be paid to counterintelligence practices.

Rationale for Course: A course at this level expands on students’ general knowledge of homeland security, looking in particular at intelligence and counterintelligence in homeland security. In particular, the course builds upon the material in SEC 1XX Introduction to U.S. Homeland Security and SEC 2XX Terrorism, Security and Emergency Management. This course introduces students to intelligence and counterintelligence.

The elective courses already exist in the BS in Security Management.

- SEC270/CSCI 270 Security of Computers and their Data
- SEC 310 Emergency Planning
- SEC 323 Private Security and Homeland Defense
- SEC 327 Risk and Vulnerability Analysis
- SEC 329 Security, Risk and Technology

8. Administration of the minor:

   a. Name, location, phone number, and email address of the minor advisor (to be used in college publications):

      Marie-Helen Maras, Associate Professor, Department of Security, Fire, and Emergency Management
      Haaren Hall 43311
      212-621-4168
      mmaras@jjay.cuny.edu

   b. Requirements for admission and/or completion of the minor if any (i.e. GPA, course grades, deadlines, etc.):

      The minor requires the completion of all six courses (18 credits) of the minor. A maximum of two courses can overlap with a student's major, other minors or programs.

9. Statement on expected enrollment and resources required:

   The department can run the Homeland Security minor without additional human resources. We have several full-time faculty members, Marie-Helen Maras, Charles Nemeth, Robert McCrie, Charles Jennings, Glenn Corbett, Lucia Velotti, Hung-Lung Wei, Lauren Shapiro, Chelsea Binns, Alex Alexandrou, and Susan Pickman, as well as several adjuncts who can teach the courses in the minor.

   This minor has a potential enrollment of 50 or more students because of interest in the topic and workforce demand. Students within our major, and their current and future employers, have been requesting courses on homeland security. The primary reason for the need for such courses is the surge of homeland security jobs. Particularly, in 2017, 2018 and 2019, federal budgets have included significant allocations for thousands of hires in the field of homeland security in critical infrastructure protection and border security.²

10. Evaluate the library resources available to support this minor (paragraph form, please include the names of specific resources as appropriate)

    Library and Instructional Materials

    The library offers sufficient resources to support the Minor. Students have access to multiple library databases in security management. The Library holdings for e-journals and traditional journals are sufficient and partially listed below:

    - Homeland Security Affairs

Approved by UCASC, Oct 19, to College Council, Nov 12, 2018
The need for electronic services for security management students, especially for online participants will be amply accommodated by the following services:

- The library catalog, CUNY+
- International Security & Counter Terrorism Reference Center
- Military and Government Collection (EBSCOHost)
- Praeger Security International Online
- CQ Global Researcher
- Country Studies
- Global Issues in Context
- GreenFILE
- PAIS International
- World Constitutions Illustrated (Hein Online)
- World Health Organization Statistical Information System
- World Legal Information Institute
- World Scholar: Latin America and the Caribbean
- Electronic encyclopedia collections (e.g. from Gale; Sage; Oxford Uni Press)
- LexisNexis Universe
- WestLaw Campus
- Criminal Justice Abstracts
- PsycINFO
- Sociological Abstracts
- JSTOR
- EBSCOhost military & government collection

Identify new library resources that are needed (provide bibliography):

Apart from the purchases of the textbooks for the required courses (see syllabi of proposed courses), existing library resources are adequate.

11. Evaluate the facilities, computer labs, or other resources needed to support this minor:

Current facilities, computer labs, and audio-visual support and equipment are adequate.

The computer and instructional equipment support offered to students and faculty enhance the learning environment at the College. All full-time faculty members have personal computers in their offices at John Jay College. Computer support for students and faculty is offered by Instructional Technology Support Services (ITSS). ITSS operates multiple labs throughout the College, which contain state-of-the-art equipment enabling students to access the World Wide Web, e-mail, online databases, and to research on-line. The managers of the ITSS computing labs are responsible for, and manage, the web servers that oversee department and faculty homepages and oversee the delivery of courses over the web. ITTS also provides regular workshops for faculty and students on standard office, statistical software applications, e-mail use, and distance learning software. These labs are available to all John Jay students and faculty. The courses in this minor will not be lab-based or require any special simulators.

The audio-visual support and equipment available to the faculty who teach in the major include: classroom delivery of a wide-array of audio-visual equipment, including video players and monitors. Most classrooms are equipped with computers with projectors. Mobile computing units, opaque projectors, slide projectors, sound systems, and CD and DVD players are available on request. The College holds a large collection of audiovisual titles available for use in faculty courses.

12. Summarize consultations with other departments that may be affected:

Approved by UCASC, Oct 19, to College Council, Nov 12, 2018
The Departments of Political Science and Law, Police Science, and Criminal Justice Administration were contacted via email. I did not receive any objections to this minor.

Discussions were held with the Department of Law and Police Science regarding the minor.

Provide the meeting date at which the departmental curriculum committee has approved this proposal (March 9, 2018).
Revision of the Bachelor’s Degree in Toxicology

The Department of Sciences, responding to a growing demand for a Toxicology Major, developed a degree program which met this demand. The Toxicology Major was introduced January 1 of 2017. Since its introduction, we have been examining the program’s needs and have determined that there is a need to add more choices of biology and chemistry courses as electives to help students complete their major requirements. These courses all will assist students in become more proficient in the field. The Department of Sciences curriculum committee has approved these changes to the Toxicology major.

Proposed Changes:

1. To comply with the Vice Chancellor of Academic Affairs memo about reducing hidden prerequisites (“the Rabinowitz memo”), we are adding MAT 141 Pre-Calculus to be listed transparently in the curriculum outline. See Math Foundation section in major below.

2. We are also requesting to add several courses listed below to Part III. Electives, Category B. Biology and Chemistry Electives.

3. The two changes above require us to expand the range of total credits to earn the major, from 66-68 to 66-72 credits. Since some of the elective courses are four credits, the credit range for Part III will have to be increased from 5-7 to 5-8 credits. The number of general electives for the bachelor’s degree will be reduced to 6-12 on the bulletin. In reality, there is a good deal of overlap of the basic math and science classes with general education (approximately 9 cr.) so students will have more electives available to them.

Rationale:

Adding pre-calculus explicitly eliminates a hidden prerequisite for the major. Expanding the list of courses also gives students more choice of electives. In addition, some students decide to switch from the forensic science major into toxicology. Adding these chemistry courses allows them to apply courses they may have already taken to the electives area more seamlessly in Degreeworks. The courses being added will help students and are deemed useful to the study of toxicology because they will expose the students in the major to a greater diversity in the foundations underlying and supporting the study of toxicology.

Electives to be added:

- CHE 220      Quantitative Analysis
- CHE 302      Physical Chemistry II (for students who have taken PHY 203-204)
- BIO 360      Human Pathology
- BIO 364      Forensic Pathology

Toxicology, Bachelor of Science

Toxicology is an interdisciplinary science that addresses the adverse effects of substances on living organisms caused by chemical, physical or biological agents. The field includes exposure assessment, hazard identification, dose-response analysis, risk characterization and risk management. Toxicologists have the critical responsibility of understanding the effect of exposure to harmful substances found in food, the environment, medicines, licit and illicit drugs and other sources, as well as that of publicizing information of relevance to the public. Through research and education, toxicologists can improve the health and safety of humans and other living organisms and protect the environment in which we live. The major begins with the foundational science courses common to any degree in the chemical or life sciences: chemistry, biology, organic chemistry, calculus, and physics, with required laboratory work throughout. Then, students take a required core of courses that cover biochemistry, human physiology, the basics of toxicology and its major sub-fields (environmental, biomedical, clinical). Students also select two elective courses they can focus on their interests and future career goals such as risk assessment, forensic toxicology, genetics, microbiology, and inorganic chemistry. Finally, the major includes an advanced capstone experience which brings all of these courses together in the study of a specific research area in toxicology. Students in this major are well-prepared for a variety of careers and graduate programs including PhD programs in toxicology, the life sciences, medical school, and related professional degrees.

Learning Outcomes. Students who complete the Toxicology major will be able to:

- Describe the distribution and the toxic mechanism of chemical, physical, and biological agents in the natural and occupational environment.
- Identify and describe the diseases or other adverse health effects that may result from exposure to toxic agents and the risk of those outcomes.
- Recognize regulatory and management considerations relative to toxic agents.
- Apply quantitative methods to measure the concentration or intensity of toxic agents.
- Explain and promote interventions to reduce or eliminate exposures to toxic agents.
- Interpret and analyze the information on the interaction of natural and man-made toxicants with people, and their impact on human health and disease.
- Assess and communicate risk of toxins affecting communities of varied racial, socioeconomic and geographic divisions.

Admission Requirements. To be admitted to the Toxicology major, students must have at least an 81 CAA (high school academic average) and one of the following:
1. Took New York State Chemistry Regents Exam; OR
2. Took the AP Chemistry Exam; OR
3. Earned at least 3.5 units of High School Mathematics; OR
4. Earned at least a score of 50 on the CLEP Chemistry exam.

Students who do not meet above criteria can attend John Jay with an undeclared major and take introductory science and mathematics courses to achieve admission to the major by performing very well in these courses.

Students who wish to transfer into the Toxicology major must have earned a Mathematics/Science GPA of 2.5 or higher in science major courses to be admitted. Transfer students from a non-science major will need to meet the criteria stated above.

Course information. To be placed into BIO 103, students must take a Biology placement exam AND must be majoring in Toxicology. In addition, MAT 105, OR MAT 141 OR MAT 241 or higher is a pre or co-requisite for BIO 103. To be placed into CHE 103, students must take a Chemistry placement exam AND must be majoring in Toxicology.

Note. At least two science courses count as STEM variants to satisfy the Common Core general education requirements. If students are exempt from the foreign language requirement, they can use an additional three credits of science towards the Common Core.

Depending on mathematics placement, students may need to take MAT 105 and MAT 141 as prerequisites for the required calculus course, MAT 241. Either prerequisite course can satisfy the Required Core: Math and Quantitative Reasoning category of the Gen Ed program.

Honors option. To earn honors in the toxicology major, students must have completed the TOX 401 capstone or the FOS 402 research internship with a grade of B+ or higher, completed all requirements for the major and have earned at least a 3.5 cumulative GPA in courses above the 100-level in the major. Credit for courses required as prerequisites for major courses and transfer credits applied to the major will not be calculated into the major cumulative GPA. Students must have also earned at least a 3.2 overall cumulative GPA. This honor will be noted on the student’s transcript.

Experiential learning opportunities. During their senior year students in the Toxicology program can participate in a variety of experiential learning opportunities. Students may enroll in the undergraduate research course, FOS 402, and participate in a faculty-sponsored laboratory research project. In addition, students may participate in a research experience associated with the capstone seminar course, TOX 401, which culminates in the presentation of original research at a poster session open to the public. In recent years, students have presented their findings at meetings such as the Environmental Club and the Health and Justice Forum.

Mathematics Foundation

Required depending on math placement

MAT 141 Pre-Calculus

Subtotal: 0-3 cr.

Advisors recommendation: Depending on student’s math placement, MAT 141 can satisfy the Required Core: Math and Quantitative Reasoning area of the Gen Ed program.

Approved by UCASC, October 19, to College Council, Nov 12, 2019
Proposal to Revise the Current policy on Undergraduate Students Taking Graduate Courses
(Undergraduate Bulletin 2018-2019)

The changes to this policy were approved at the October meeting of the Committee on Graduate Studies. This updated policy will be added to the 2019-20 Graduate Bulletin.

Current Policy on Taking Graduate Courses:

Seniors with a grade point average of 3.0 or higher may, upon the recommendation of the director of the graduate program concerned and the approval of the Dean of Graduate Studies or the Registrar, enroll for a maximum of 6 credits of graduate courses at the undergraduate tuition rate. Only one 3-credit graduate course may be taken in a semester. These courses may not count toward the master’s degree if they have served to fulfill baccalaureate degree requirements with the exception of students in accelerated bachelor’s/master’s degree programs.

Rationale

The existing policy on undergraduates taking graduate courses included the provision that graduate credits applied toward a bachelor’s degree cannot count toward a master’s degree. This restriction made little sense, as the college has accelerated programs in which graduate courses count toward both undergraduate and graduate degree requirements. Moreover, this restriction places John Jay undergraduates at a disadvantage – graduate programs accept transfer credit from accredited colleges earned with a B or better irrespective of how those credits were applied at the previous institution. It makes little sense to exclude graduate credits taken at John Jay from counting toward a John Jay graduate degree.

The proposal also includes changes designed to clarify the policy, including that undergraduate students wishing to take graduate courses must satisfy the criteria (prerequisites, e.g.) of the program hosting the course. Also, since not all graduate courses are three credits, the policy now states that students can take up to two courses instead of six credits.

Revision with changes reflected:

Undergraduates Taking Graduate Courses

Seniors with a minimum grade point average of 3.0 or higher may, upon the approval recommendation of the director of the graduate program concerned, based on criteria unique to that program, and the approval of the Dean of Graduate Studies or the Registrar, may enroll for a maximum number of 6 credits of two graduate courses at the undergraduate tuition rate. Only one 3-credit graduate course may be taken in a semester. These courses may not count toward the master’s degree if they have served to fulfill baccalaureate degree requirements with the exception of students in accelerated bachelor’s/master’s degree programs the student is accepted into the program. This policy does not apply to students accepted into accelerated or dual admission bachelor’s/master’s degree programs.

Revised version:

Undergraduates Taking Graduate Courses

Seniors with a minimum grade point average of 3.0, upon the approval of the director of the graduate program concerned, based on criteria unique to that program, and the approval of the Dean of Graduate Studies, may enroll for a maximum of two graduate courses at the undergraduate tuition rate. Only one graduate course may be taken in a semester. These courses may count toward the master’s degree if the student is accepted into the program. This policy does not apply to students accepted in accelerated or dual admission bachelor’s/master’s degree programs.

2. a. Title of the course   Podcasting: Social Impact, Style, and Practice

   b. Abbreviated title (not more than 20 characters including spaces to appear on student transcripts and in SIMS) -- Practical Podcasting

   c. Level of this course   ____100 Level   ____200 Level   __X__300 Level   ____400 Level

   Please provide a brief rationale for why the course is at the level:

   This course builds on the writing skills, analytical processes, creative development, awareness of social justice and specific knowledge acquired in academic majors. Students taking this course will need proficiency in critical thinking, oral communication, writing and organizational skills to facilitate development of professionally pitched and realized podcasts, which could be disseminated to an identified audience. Working in groups, students will experience the real-world problems of producing team projects that involve technical choices and that encompass complex messages, affecting real audiences. Students will thus have an opportunity to learn and practice skills critical to their future careers: teamwork, technical knowledge, and effective oral and written communication. Finally, to produce a successful podcast, students will need to understand their program topics at a high level. To that goal, students’ majors will be used as the basis for forming teams and choosing podcast topics. As such, a proficient understanding of the issues forming one’s major will be needed to establish concrete, complex, factual, and audience-engaging podcast ideas and outcomes.

   d. Course prefix to be used (i.e. ENG, SOC, HIS, etc.): ENG
3. Rationale for the course (will be submitted to CUNY in the Chancellor’s Report). Why should John Jay College offer this course? (Explain briefly, 1-3 paragraphs.)

The academic and practical outcomes of “Podcasting” support the critical and socially positive goals of the college which call for John Jay students to investigate and practice “fierce” social justice and global engagement from varied perspectives and to gain digital communication skills, critical thinking skills, and professional experiences leading to advanced study and success in emerging fields. In an important sense, the act of podcasting has become a public space to explore social structures, encourage social justice and to express personal values, interests and tastes. Podcasting has become a significant, bottom-up, public forum --and arguably, a vital alternative to the professional journalistic voice-- for counter-narratives about the American society.

“Podcasting” will challenge students through readings, conversations, and hands-on experiences, to appreciate the potential social impact of today’s professional podcasts. For example, “Serial” and “Reveal”, popular, award-winning investigative podcasts, have demonstrated the importance of podcasts in effecting positive ways of seeing contemporary American democracy and justice. This course will generate the critical thinking, research, organizational and writing skills required to produce podcast programs encompassing multiple cultural and disciplinary perspectives. Participants will reflect on who they are as citizens and develop their capacity to communicate in this complex form--and do so in a team-oriented context.

Finally -- our students will be graduating into a world of digital communication, in which professionalism will require not only critical thinking, writing, and speaking skills, but, also, the ability to use cutting-edge technology to disseminate original, positive social ideas with a personal and committed voice, reflecting the diversity of our institution. The technical requirements of such a podcasting class has been established in the English Department’s Podcast Studio--a user friendly facility to produce, broadcast, and live-stream student podcast products.

4. Course description as it is to appear in the College Bulletin. (Keep in mind that this is for a student audience and so should be clear and informative; please write in complete sentences; we suggest not more than 75 words.)

Podcasting has become a major contemporary platform for citizen voices. This course allows students to gain hands-on experience in researching, writing, and producing podcasts on topics chosen by student teams and guided by the instructor. Podcast program choices will focus on topics that are relevant to current social and civic conditions, both locally and nationally. Technical training will include practice with professional sound equipment and editing and streaming software, as well as streaming broadcasting software. Students will gain a basic understanding of podcasting styles and the impact of podcasting on social justice and news media. Students will practice skills needed to create broadcast-quality podcast programs.
Course Prerequisites or co-requisites (Please note: All 200-level courses must have ENG 101 and all 300 & 400-level courses must have ENG 102/201 as prerequisites):

   d. Prerequisites(s):

8. Learning Outcomes (approximately 3-5 or whatever is required for mapping to the Gen Ed outcomes). What will the student know or be able to do by the end of the course? How do the outcomes relate to the program’s (major; minor) outcomes?

   a. Student engages with contemporary social justice issues through appropriate choice of podcast project topics.
   b. Student demonstrates understanding of various podcast genres and the impact of radio-style conventions within an historical context.
   c. Student critically evaluates the styles and technical approaches used for recently produced podcasts using appropriate technical audio and mass communication terms.
   d. Student produces podcasts that are appropriately sourced and cited, using language that considers word choice, syntax, and a precise and fair interpretation of messages and ideas gained via direct interviews and credible secondary sources.
   e. Student teams produce podcast products that are crisply edited, focusing on both clarity, complexity of the arguments and audience engagement.

19. Will this course be part of any major(s), minor(s) or program(s)?)

   If yes, Indicate major(s), minor(s), or program(s) and indicate the part, category, etc. (Please be specific)
   English Minor/Major; Creative Writing Minor
Digital Media and Journalism Minor has expressed interest in adding this course to their offerings.

10a. Will this course be part of JJ’s general education program? (remember to fill out the CUNY Common Core Form if part of Required or Flexible Core)

No ___X___ Yes _____ If yes, please indicate the area:

11. How will you assess student learning?
Written analyses, project planning, script writing, sound-editing, and class presentation assignments will be assessed based on clarity, logic and complexity of ideas, coherency of organization, thoroughness in completing tasks, appropriate attributions and synthesis of sources, and effective and correct grammar and syntax for oral and written assignments. Since this is team work, individual grades will be based both on the success of the group project and on the individual student’s contribution. Though iterations of this course may focus on different aspects of assessment, all should include some attention to the following areas:

- Participating in class discussions and team meetings.
- Two team podcasts--20 to 30 minutes.
- Individual completion of team role in producing podcast programs.
- Pre-podcast tasks--for training purposes.
- Team presentation and critique of a professional podcast.
- Completion of various readings via summary writing, annotating, and class discussion.
- Annotated Bibliography for each team podcast project.
- Two reflection papers on the team podcast programs. Emphasis will be placed on process and ways to improve procedures, and how this experience impacted understanding of podcasting as a mass media form.

12. Did you meet with a librarian to discuss library resources for the course?

Yes___X_ No____

An appointment will be made this week, but most source material students will need is available via opensource or JJ database options.

- If yes, please state the librarian’s name _____Marta Bladek____________________
- Are there adequate resources in the library to support students’ work in the course
  Yes___X___ No____

- Will your students be expected to use any of the following library resources? Check all that apply. Yes—see notes below:
Students’ use of each of the following resources will depend on the requirements of their specific podcast project >>>

- The library catalog, CUNY+
- OneSearch
- Electronic encyclopedia collections (e.g. from Gale; Sage; Oxford University Press)

Course Description:
Podcasting has become a major contemporary platform for citizen voices. This course allows students to gain hands-on experience in researching, writing, and producing podcasts on topics chosen by student teams and guided by the instructor. Podcast program choices will focus on topics that are relevant to current social and civic conditions, both locally and nationally. Technical training will include practice with professional sound equipment, and editing and streaming software, as well as streaming broadcasting software. Students will gain a basic understanding of podcasting styles and the impact of podcasting on social justice and news media. Students will practice skills needed to create broadcast-quality podcast programs.

Course Prerequisites or co-requisites (Please note: All 200-level courses must have ENG 101 and all 300 & 400-level courses must have ENG 102/201 as prerequisites):

ENG 201; and ENG 131 Self, Media and Society or by permission of the instructor.

Course Objectives:
   a. Student engages with contemporary social justice issues through appropriate choice of podcast project topics.
   b. Student demonstrates understanding of various podcast genres and the impact of radio-style conventions within an historical context.
   c. Student critically evaluates the styles and technical approaches used for recently produced podcasts using appropriate technical audio and mass communication terms.
   d. Student produces podcasts that are appropriately sourced and cited, using language that considers word choice, syntax, and a precise and fair interpretation of messages and ideas gained via direct interviews and credible secondary sources.
   e. Student teams produce podcast products that are crisply edited, focusing on both clarity, complexity of the arguments and audience engagement.

Course Texts:
Unless otherwise specified, all required readings on the course schedule can be found in the course eportfolio in the “Readings” section. This means that you won’t have to buy a textbook for this course, but please note that you will need to access both the course eportfolio and Blackboard often and that you must have reliable access to these online programs.
*A Note on Course Material Costs: Course costs are kept down by uploading readings to the course eportfolio. Furthermore, technical aspects of the course will be available to you via the Podcast Studio. Be aware that you need to schedule times at least a week in advance to use the studio and its equipment.

Office Hours:
Meeting times with the instructor are posted above or you can arrange for alternate times to meet. It is helpful to let the professor know by email if you plan to drop by. Occasionally, official college meetings are scheduled during this time. At times the instructor will reach out to students to meet; please treat these requests as an opportunity and not a punishment. awinson@jjay.cuny.edu

Class Sessions:
The class will meet two hours (periods) a week to do the following:
- Discuss that week's focused topic and reading-- posted and annotated in the course eportfolio.
- Discuss podcasting history, form and style.
- Investigate the question of what makes an effective podcast.
- Form teams and report on progress with podcast projects.
- Peer evaluation of these projects.
- Go over technical questions dealing with recording and editing an effective podcast.
See course schedule for topics to be covered in each week.

Lab Sessions:
Podcast Teams will meet weekly and accomplish the following:
- Decide on individual roles and responsibilities.
- Decide on podcast focus and organization.
- Discuss, plan, and carry-out podcast program.
- Meet with the instructor and technical teaching assistant to discuss progress with the podcast project and further technical training.

Class Participation:
In-class meetings. An important component of this content/lab class is full participation. In order to take part in the course, students must arrive at class prepared with assignments completed and ready to ask questions and share comments, ideas, and feedback. Attendance points are part of the participation component of the course grade.
Podcast Team Lab meetings. Team work presents challenges and opportunities. Everyone on the team must actively participate in forming decisions, as well as carrying out those decisions. The podcast project part of the grade will be based on the work of the individual and the quality of the final product. Each student will be graded based on the following:
- Actively participating and contributing to the group work.
- Completing group responsibilities fully and on time.
• Being present at team meetings with the instructor.

Attendance:
Full attendance at class and team meetings is required. All absences will affect students’ final participation portion of the course grade. No more than three absences total--class or team meeting--is allowed for a passing participation grade.

Class meets once a week for 2 hours. Podcast teams meet for additional 2 hours as part of lab requirement. Some of the team meetings will be with the instructor to report on progress with podcast programs, or with the technical teaching assistant. Meeting times need to be scheduled with the professor and technical teaching assistant at the beginning of the semester. Students are required to attend all team meetings. See Weekly Schedule for Team Meeting requirements.

Absent students are responsible for all assignments, announcements, class work, and team decisions. Furthermore, attendance is not based on physical presence alone. Students must be prepared for the class and make an attempt to participate. Distracting activities during class--sleeping, texting, doing homework for another class, et cetera--will be marked as an absence.

Late Arrival/Early Exit:
Class / Team Lab Meetings: Scheduled meetings will begin and end on time. Entering at any point after attendance has been taken (or leaving before class/team meeting is completed) will result in a “late” documentation. Three “lates” will equal one absence; however, arriving more than twenty minutes late (or leaving more than twenty minutes early) is considered an absence for that class/lab session.

Leaving/Reentering Classroom:
Leaving during a class session is disruptive, no matter how discreetly you do so. Please remain in class for the entire period. However, if you must leave class briefly you do not need to ask permission. Repeatedly leaving the class in this way will affect your participation grade.

Grade Breakdown:

10% Participation. Class attendance and participation in in-class conversations. Engaging with peer reviews of team programs within team’s eportfolio.

20% Low-Stakes Writing and Presentations: Annotation of articles, reflective writing following podcast projects. Each team will be assigned one “Podcast of the Week” Presentation.

25% Podcast Preparation: Including team meetings with the instructor, use of the Podcast Studio for production purposes, posting of program outlines, and indications of communication between members with the team’s eportfolio and that each student is fulfilling team responsibilities. See below and course eportfolio for more details on these responsibilities of all team members.
40% Podcast Programs: Minimum requirement: Smaller audio projects used to establish basic technical and group dynamic skills to enable work on the main podcast projects (5%). Two Team Podcasts 20 - 30 minutes, fully-edited based on a topic related to student major. Main podcast projects will require research and writing assignments. The first podcast is worth 15%, the second 20%.

5% Final Presentation: Conversation between podcast team members looking back on their work and looking forward to developing podcasting ideas.

Podcast Program Requirements:

Number of programs. Each team is required to produce two 20- 30 minute podcast programs.

Focused podcast theme. These programs should develop a single theme or idea in some way relating to the team members’ majors.

Team Meetings. Each team is required to meet with the instructor and technical teaching assistant during lab hours. Podcast teams will also be required to meet on their own to discuss the developing podcast program and to work towards a successful podcast product. The team Librarian will take notes during these meetings and post to team’s eportfolio.

What you need to accomplish in planning the team’s podcast

- Work toward a program topic that is of interest to all team members and relates in some manner to their majors in a creative way.
- Develop a working bibliography for each program.
- Gain proficiency on program topic via background reading.
- Include a variety of sound to establish audience interest. Such variety could include expert and peer interviews - original music for transitions - sound effects and environmental sound to establish place - introductory scripting and exposition of the issue being explored.

What you will have accomplished in completing the team podcast:

- Developed a focused theme investigating a question over two programs.
- Established a credible and professional voice engaging the issue being investigated.
- Gained borrowed credibility from experts in selected fields, utilizing secondary print sources and direct interviews.
- Developed a listener-base to elicit feedback via social media.
- Created a podcasting audio style by modeling established podcasts.
- Produced a clean, crisply edited, comprehensive, coherent, and entertaining program.
- Explored wider--out-of-college--venues for the podcast idea.

Steps to create team podcast programs. Each project will take, approximately, 5 weeks. The first podcast program will be completed at about midterm and the second, at the end of the semester.

1. Each student develops a “pitch” for a two-podcast series. Each student will present her idea and the class will vote on the four best projects. Teams will be formed around this choice. Each proposal will:
   a. Summarize the podcast idea or focus.
b. Argue for why this podcast topic should be looked at now. Who is the audience for this investigation? What are the outcomes? Raise awareness or change minds?

c. Establish proposer’s credibility for producing this podcast topic. What qualities will you bring to this project that will assure its completion?

d. Organize an annotated bibliography of 5 sources that could be used for the project.

2. Establish teams with the following duties [NOTE: Teams with more than four students will divide duties. Teams under four will combine duties.]

a. Program Director / Producer -- should be the person who proposed the project. She is in charge of creating and maintaining the program chart, of making sure goals are reached according to a schedule, and of checking that team members understand and accomplish assignments.

b. Librarian -- stores and orders collected information--print, audio, and visual--to be used to create the podcast and supplemental social media materials. Items are to be uploaded into the team’s eportfolio or other cloud-based location accessible to all team members. These materials include: All audio collected and created by the team and research materials. In addition, the Librarian takes notes at all team meetings including those with the professor and technical assistant teacher.

c. Public Relations Manager [PRM] -- develops an audience of listeners for the podcast by creating a social media presence for the podcast program. The PRM: Establishes a plan for gaining listeners and their feedback and then carries out the plan. Edits this plan as contingencies and better processes are discovered. The PRM should be skilled with social media and work to develop an online presence for the podcast program. Graphic editing skills are desirable.

d. Technician / Program Editor -- runs the sound board in the Podcast Studio and edits the final project. This student will receive additional tutoring in using the PreSonus mixer and Logic Pro editing app. To a great extent this student is responsible for the style of the podcast program.

3. First Team Meeting for each podcast project. This required meeting involves only the team members. The team Librarian takes role and notes to be posted to the team’s eportfolio. The Podcast topic is to be discussed and a set of goals determined. Further, a schedule needs to be established for reaching those goals. A first draft of the program chart should be written at this first meeting.

4. First Meeting with Professor and Technical Teaching Assistant for each podcast project. This can be one meeting or separate meetings. Preparation for this meeting includes student reflection in team’s eportfolio on the following. These reflections will organize the discussion during the meeting:

a. How well do you feel the project is going? Explain your answer. Are planned goals being accomplished?

b. Have all team members been contributing, from your POV?
c. Do you feel that you will reach all stated goals -- or -- should the team reconsider its goals and schedule with time remaining?

5. Second Meeting with Professor for each podcast project. Present draft podcast--whatever has been completed by that time. Reflect on what more needs to be done to complete the project on time.

6. Class Presentation of Podcast Project. Each team makes a formal presentation of the completed podcast program to class. Portions of the podcast are played for the class. A class critique of what was presented, follows. Then, each student produces a reflection paper on what was accomplished and what more needs to be done to reach the original goals of the program. Post reflection papers in team’s eportfolio.

Weekly Assignments:

All assignments will be discussed in class and will be explained in detail in the course eportfolio. There are two sorts of assignments:

1. Class-Based Assignment.
   - Reading and listening assignments with annotations.
   - Participating in class discussions of various topics in podcasting.
   - Writing focused reflection papers.
   - Completing practice podcasting projects.

2. Team-Based Assignments. All team members are required to participate in the following:
   - Brainstorming for a podcast idea and focus.
   - Developing and writing a podcast program proposal.
   - Gathering information for the podcast’s working bibliography. Must include, but is not limited to, articles and books.
   - Participating in acquiring relevant recorded interviews and sound from the web.
   - Developing a detailed podcast program chart, outlining the program.
   - Editing the podcast program.
   - Presenting outcomes to the class.

Specific readings, models, instruction, class exercises, group work, and preliminary writing steps will prepare students for high stakes writing projects.

Remain aware of and up-to-date on all assignments. See Weekly Schedule below. All work will be posted in the team’s eportfolio. Be sure to check the course eportfolio on a regular basis. Assignments and readings may change; any changes will be announced in class and be reflected in the course eportfolio.

Questions concerning assignments are always welcomed. Please do so in class, via email or in an office visit.
Late Assignment Policy: Please note that without exception all assignments--low and high stakes--are due on time. There will be no late submissions. Due dates are posted with the assignment.

Lab--team meeting--Etiquette: This podcasting class will be a safe and serious venue for critical analysis and podcast production. You should treat your peers’ work with respect and as confidential. Your peers and I will endeavor to give you strong, respectful feedback based on a specific set of criteria. Further -- podcast projects will be shared publicly, if all members of a team agree to do so. The same approach will be taken to any work that is posted in the team’s eportfolio. You must ask for and receive permission from the team to post team work to your own digital platform.

   b. Abbreviated title (not more than 20 characters including spaces to appear on student transcripts and in SIMS) Regression

   c. Level of this course  ____100 Level  ____200 Level  ____X__300 Level  ____400 Level

   Please provide a brief rationale for why the course is at the level:
   Regression analysis course covers concepts and techniques that are beyond those addressed in an introductory level statistics course. The course provides the skills of analyzing relationships between response variable and explanatory variables that requires knowledge in statistical inferences, matrix algebra, and some linear algebra concepts. These prerequisite courses are offered at lower 300 level. For this reason, it is appropriate that this course be offered at the upper 300 level.

   d. Course prefix to be used (i.e. ENG, SOC, HIS, etc.): _____MAT________

3. Rationale for the course (will be submitted to CUNY in the Chancellor’s Report). Why should John Jay College offer this course? (Explain briefly, 1-3 paragraphs.)

   The statistical methods of regression are the most important predictive tools in the data scientist’s toolkit. These techniques are central to the emerging field of “data science” as well as core contents in the disciplines of economics, political science and psychology. Regression analysis course will be an integral part of the newly approved Applied Mathematics degree program that is scheduled to start in Fall 2018 semester. This program offers two tracks, namely data science and cryptography. In the data science track, students will learn principles of data representation, big data management, and statistical modeling. Some of the learning objectives of the data science track are gaining a broad understanding of multivariate techniques, implementing analyses of multivariate methods using statistical software, and using suitable models e.g. linear regression, logistic regression, etc. to analyze data and predict probability distributions.

Regression Analysis refers to statistical techniques used to estimate the relationship between variables, testing the utility of the models, and predicting future outcomes. A regression analysis course will enable students in this degree program to gain the necessary skills of analyzing data which are learning objectives of the degree program. The proposed MAT 3XX course will have all the required topics such as simple linear regression, multiple linear regression, parameter estimation and testing, model selection, residual analysis, and special topics such as logistic regression. This course will have a required software component using the statistical software package R, which is essential in data analysis. This course will help students achieve the data science track learning objectives.

4. Course description as it is to appear in the College Bulletin. (Keep in mind that this is for a student audience and so should be clear and informative; please write in complete sentences; we suggest not more than 75 words.)

Regression, perhaps the most widely used statistical technique, estimates relationships between independent (predictor or explanatory) variables and a dependent (response or outcome) variable. One purpose of regression may be to predict, or estimate, the value of one variable from known or assumed values of other variables related to it. The course covers regression techniques with applications to the type of problems encountered in real-world situations. Topics include simple linear regression, residual analysis, multiple regression, parameter estimation and testing, model selection procedures and special topics such as logistics regression. R programming language will be used for data analysis.

5. Course Prerequisites or co-requisites (Please note: All 200-level courses must have ENG 101 and all 300 & 400-level courses must have ENG 102/201 as prerequisites):

ENG 201; and MAT 302 Probability and Mathematical Statistics 2 and MAT 310 – Linear Algebra; or permission of the instructor

6. Number of:
   a. Class hours ___3___
   b. Lab hours ___0___
   c. Credits ___3___
7. Has this course been taught on an experimental basis?

____ No  __X__ Yes. If yes, then please provide:

a. Semester(s) and year(s): Spring 2017, 2018
b. Teacher(s): Leslie Chandranantha
c. Enrollment(s): 11, 11
d. Prerequisites(s): MAT 301, MAT 310

8. Learning Outcomes (List three to five only). What will the student know or be able to do by the end of the course? How do the outcomes relate to the program’s (major; minor) outcomes?

1. Question the assumptions of a simple linear model in order to assess the model adequacy and quantify the relationship between an outcome variable and a single predictor variable.

2. Estimate means, construct interval estimates and predictions, and evaluate hypotheses using a multiple linear regression model and the utility of the F-test.

3. Use regression diagnostics to anticipate and adjust for characteristics of the data in order to improve the model fit.

4. How to employ categorical predictors through the model fitting process.

5. Implement analyses of regression methods using the R statistical package.

9. Will this course be part of any major(s), minor(s) or program(s)?

_____No  __X__Yes

If yes, Indicate major(s), minor(s), or program(s) and indicate the part, category, etc. (Please be specific)

Major: Applied Mathematics, Data Science concentration. Minor: Mathematics, Part II: Electives

10. How will you assess student learning?

Student learning will be assessed on the basis of weekly homework assignments, biweekly quizzes, two midterm exams, and a final exam. The homework assignments cover all regression analysis techniques introduced in the class. Each assignment will require performing data analysis based on regression analysis techniques learned in the class for a given practical research problem and submitting a written report with the conclusions. In doing these assignments, students should be able to translate a research question into more precise hypotheses that could effectively be tested by regression analysis techniques.
Each of these assignments includes a writing component. Students will be required to submit a written report of their work which must include a clearly defined statement of objectives, a summary of the methodology employed, a concise statement of the results of their analysis, and any further conclusions. A one paragraph abstract summary is also part of the writing assignment. These assignments are intended to provide a practicum of the writing skills that are expected of contemporary mathematicians whether they be employed in the public or private sectors. Individuals today are expected to communicate their endeavors with precision and clarity. These written reports are an important way of inculcating the necessary style and logic of scientific exposition.

Two midterm and the final exams and the quizzes are in class assessments that assess students’ knowledge of regression analysis techniques learned in the class. The exams consist of technical questions, applying regression techniques using R software to data sets and making conclusions, and short answer questions. The quizzes consist of short answer questions that test the knowledge of fundamental concepts of the regression models.

14. Faculty - Who will be assigned to teach this course? Leslie Chandrakantha, Peter Shenkin

15. Is this proposed course similar to or related to any course, major, or program offered by any other department(s)? How does this course differ?

___ No
_X__ Yes. If yes, what course(s), major(s), or program(s) is this course similar or related to? With whom did you meet? Provide a brief description.

This course is similar course material of ECO 330, Econometrics, in Economics department.
Econometrics shares many overlapping areas of interest of statistics: linear models, hypothesis testing, graphical models for causal/non-causal inference, multiple testing, resampling, time series analysis, etc. Our proposed Regression Analysis course has some of these topics and additional topics such as variable selection, residual analysis, and special topics including logistic regression. We do not cover analysis of variance and time series related topics in this course.

The proposed course is more mathematical, compared to ECO 330 and needs higher level prerequisites such as Probability and Mathematical Statistics II (MAT 302) and Linear Algebra (MAT 310).

I met with Professor Jay Hamilton (Chairman) and Professor Geert Dondt to discuss about our proposed Regression Analysis course.

16. Did you consult with department(s) or program(s) offering similar or related courses or majors?

_ _ Not applicable

_X__ Yes. If yes, give a short summary of the consultation process and results.
I consulted with the Professor Jay Hamilton, chairman of economics department. I explained that the proposed regression analysis course covers more advanced and mathematical topics.

17. Will any course be withdrawn, if this course is approved?

Requirements and Course Policies

Attendance:
Students are expected to attend every class and to arrive on time. Lateness, excessive absences, or a lack of participation will adversely affect a student’s final grade. Any student with more than four (4) absences will receive a failing grade in the course. You are expected to notify the professor by email on the day of your absence. Two absences are allowed without penalty. Each additional absence results in a deduction of 1% from the total number of points achievable for the course. You will receive a bonus of 2% for perfect attendance, or 1% if you have just one absence.

Classroom Etiquette:
- Students will turn off all electronic devices before entering class. Texting or reading texts during class is prohibited and will be penalized.
- No part of this class may be reproduced electronically or digitally without the prior
Students will act professionally during class.
Discourteous or disorderly behavior in class will not be tolerated.
You are asked not to leave the room during class; including after quizzes, except for emergencies.
You are expected to participate in class and to be respectful of the opinions of other students.
The College maintains a policy prohibiting eating and drinking in classrooms with computers. Please adhere to this policy.

Incomplete Grade Policy
An Incomplete Grade (INC) is within the discretion of the faculty member as to whether or not to give the grade of Incomplete. A grade of incomplete may be given to a student who does not complete the coursework. Incomplete work is due by the student no later than the third week of the following semester. The foregoing statement does not relieve the student from his/her responsibility in completing coursework as directed.
(For more information consult the Undergraduate Bulletin 2012-2013, p.232)

Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) Policies
Qualified students with disabilities will be provided reasonable academic accommodations if determined eligible by the Office of Accessibility Services (OAS). Prior to granting disability accommodations in this course, the instructor must receive written verification of a student’s eligibility from the OAS which is located in the New Building, Room L.66.00 (212-237-8031). It is the student’s responsibility to initiate contact with the Office and to follow the established procedures for having the accommodation notice sent to the instructor.” (Undergraduate Bulletin 2012-2013, p.260)

Statement of the College Policy on Plagiarism:
Plagiarism is the presentation of someone else’s ideas, words, or artistic, scientific, or technical work as one’s creation. Using the ideas or work of another is permissible only when the original author is identified. Paraphrasing and summarizing, as well as direct quotations require citations to the original source.

Plagiarism may be intentional or unintentional. Lack of dishonest intent does not necessarily absolve a student of responsibility for plagiarism.

It is the student’s responsibility to recognize the difference between statements that are common knowledge (which do not require documentation) and restatements of the ideas of others. Paraphrasing, summarizing, and direct quotations are acceptable forms of restatement, as long as the source is cited. Students are advised to consult with their instructors when they are unsure about how and when to provide documentation. The Library has free guides designed to help students with problems of documentation.    b. Abbreviated title (not more than 30 characters including spaces to appear on student transcripts and in CF) Intro to Homeland Security

   c. Level of this course ___100 Level ___200 Level ___300 Level ___400 Level

      Please provide a brief rationale for why the course is at the level: A course at this level introduce students to the field of homeland security.

   d. Course prefix to be used (i.e. ENG, SOC, HIS, etc.): _SEC_

3. Rationale for the course (will be submitted to CUNY in the Chancellor’s Report). Why should John Jay College offer this course? (Explain briefly, 1-3 paragraphs.)

   After the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001, homeland security came to forefront of public and private sector concerns. John Jay College of Criminal Justice does not have homeland security courses. An undergraduate course introducing the field of homeland security to students at John Jay College of Criminal Justice is long overdue. Given that both public and private security sectors are responsible for homeland security, students without this basic knowledge would be at a disadvantage at the time of hire.

4. Course description as it is to appear in the College Bulletin. (Keep in mind that this is for a student audience and so should be clear and informative; please write in complete sentences; we suggest not more than 75 words.)
With the majority of U.S. key critical infrastructures privately owned or operated, the private security sector plays a prominent, albeit often overlooked, role in homeland security. This course provides an overview of U.S. homeland security, threats to homeland security, and the role of private security in homeland security. It also examines the Department of Homeland Security and its mission, objectives, structure, responsibilities, and operations, and the challenges it faces. Special attention will be paid to critical infrastructure protection in the United States.

8. Learning Outcomes (approximately 3-5 or whatever is required for mapping to the Gen Ed outcomes). What will the student know or be able to do by the end of the course? How do the outcomes relate to the program’s (major; minor) outcomes?

   Students will:

   - Define homeland security and examine the history of the discipline
   - Identify and explain the role of private security in U.S. homeland security
   - Critically examine the different threats to homeland security, including terrorism, organized crime, cybercrime, and illegal immigration, distinguishing between popular assumptions and evidence-based research.
   - Describe the mission, objectives, structure, responsibilities, and operations of the Department of Homeland Security
   - Explain and critically analyze the legal, moral and ethical challenges faced by DHS and its role in infrastructure protection, border defense and the challenge of terrorism

Attendance/Class Participation

If you have more than THREE unexcused absences, you will receive a zero for participation and attendance in the class, which is worth 10% of your grade. An attendance sheet will be circulated during class. It is your responsibility to sign the sheet during class. Your attendance in class is expected. This is a very fast paced course and failure to contribute to discussions in class will result in a loss of points (a grade of zero for the day’s participation). You must be an active participant in every class.

If you show up to class late or leave before class finishes, participation points will also be reduced. What's more, if you do not arrive within the first 10 minutes of the course, you will be marked as late. If you are late to class 2 times, this will count as ONE absence.

*Absences adversely impact your participation and attendance score.

Assignment Due Dates & Make-Up Work

You must submit all work no later than the due date for each assignment or NO points will be given. I do not accept late assignments or make-up work, unless an emergency exists for which proof can be provided.

Grades Policy

All the letter grades may be used in this course. Grades are not subject to change unless there has been a clear error on my part, but you are welcome to discuss them with me. Incompletes are only granted in extreme cases such as illness or other family emergency (and only if all but one piece of work was not completed). A student’s procrastination in completing his/her papers and the presentation is not a basis for an Incomplete.

Plagiarism

Plagiarism involves using an author's work without citing him or her. It entails trying to pass off, deliberately or unconsciously, somebody else's work as your own.

IMPORTANT: My policy on plagiarism ~ Plagiarism detection software will be used in this course. For the first offense of plagiarism an F will be given and the department will be notified. Under no circumstance will you be able to redo the assignment that was plagiarized. For the second offense, you will fail the course.

Using Previously Submitted Coursework

You are not allowed to use work that you have submitted to other classes here. All assignments in this class require original work.

Class Protocol

All electronic devices must be turned off in class. No recordings of the lectures are authorized unless the professor has granted permission.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

READ ME!

For Participation:

- You must complete the readings before coming to class. In the class, the readings will be discussed, questions will be asked, and you will be called upon to contribute to the discussions. You will not receive points if you do not participate in the discussions and if you do not participate in the labs.

For Homework:

- You will be assigned two case studies on homeland security (one case study for each homework). You will also be asked specific questions about the case study which you must answer. The case studies will be included on Blackboard.
- These assignments must be submitted in a Word document, 12-point font. Each must be at least two full page long (double spaced). Your paper must have a minimum of 2 scholarly sources¹ (not those assigned for required readings); for example, periodical and journal articles; government reports and studies; and scholarly books. All submissions must have a separate reference page. Significant points will be deducted for shorter submissions.
- All homework must be posted on Blackboard in the appropriate drop box by 11:59 pm on the day they are due.

¹ Information about what constitutes a scholarly source will be included on Blackboard, along with a tutorial on how to find scholarly sources.
For Midterm:

- It will be a timed exam (one hour), taken in class during Week 9. The exam will consist of short essay (2 questions; 4 points each question), fill-in-the-blank (6 questions; 2 points each question) and multiple choice questions (10 questions; 1 point each question). It will cover the material from Week 1 – Week 8.

For Group Presentations:

- Your topic and groups will be selected on the first day of class. The students will be randomly assigned to groups. Each group will have a topic that has been selected by the professor. The topic for the group presentation will be based on current homeland security issues. Using evidence-based arguments, students will be required to critically analyze a pre-assigned homeland security issue and the measures that have been implemented in the U.S. that deal with this issue.
- The group presentations are worth 20% of your total grade. In this presentation, you will discuss your topic and the highlights of your research. Your presentation will be no more than 10 minutes long.
- You must use PowerPoint slides or Prezi.
- Your presentation must be submitted to Blackboard on the day of your presentation.²

REQUIRED TEXTS

Class lectures, handouts, outside readings, PowerPoint presentations, and videos will be used to accomplish the course objectives. Students will be expected to consult the below required texts for class preparation.

Other peer-reviewed academic journal articles and scholarly works will be used in this course as well (see Course Calendar). The course is structured in such a way that you will not be able to participate in class if you have not done the assigned reading. Handouts will also be provided to students whenever required. Students are encouraged to read widely and strategically beyond the assigned texts (some recommendations for such readings will be made for you in each week, under the further reading section).

GRADING

Participation: 10%
Homework: 40% [2 homework assignment; 20 points each]
Midterm Exam: 30%
Group Presentation: 20%

² An exemplar presentation will be posted on Blackboard.

COLLEGE-WIDE POLICIES

Plagiarism Policy

Americans with Disabilities Act Policy

Qualified students with disabilities will be provided reasonable academic accommodations if determined eligible by the Office of Accessibility Services (OAS). Prior to granting disability accommodations in this course, the instructor must receive written verification of a student’s eligibility from the OAS which is located at L66 in the new building (212-237-8031). It is the student’s responsibility to initiate contact with the office and to follow the established procedures for having the accommodation notice sent to the instructor.

A GUIDE TO IN-TEXT CITATIONS AND REFERENCES (OR BIBLIOGRAPHIES)

Each and every piece of written work needs in-text citations and a bibliography in proper format such as APA, MLA or Chicago. Such references take a specific form which differs in each subject. The following plan will indicate how they are to be done in the security discipline. If ever in doubt, either see me, look at how I have done it on your syllabus, or just look at the articles and follow their pattern.

In-text citations should be used either following a quotation, OR when you are paraphrasing someone else’s argument. Remember, if you do not use citations, then you will be plagiarizing! In-text bracketed citations should be used. These appear like this: blah blah blah (Maras, 2009) when paraphrasing or “blah blah blah” (Maras, 2009, p. 29) when quoting.

i.e. In-text citations take the form (Author, date, page number).

If it is just a general direction to the reader to look at a particular book, rather than at a specific page, just put the author and date: (Maras, 2009).

Having used in-text citations, you must now compile a reference list or bibliography. Usually references and bibliographies only contain those books which you have cited. However, if you have done large amounts of other reading, then you can include some of them as “consulted sources”. I will list some examples of how to cite sources. If you are unclear about how to use such weird things as the internet to find information on citing sources, please ask me assistance on this matter.

Wellness and Student Resources (http://www.jjay.cuny.edu/wellness-resources)

Students experiencing any personal, medical, financial or familial distress, which may impede on their ability to fulfill the requirements of this course, are encouraged to visit the Wellness Center (L.65 NB). Available resources include Counseling Services, Health Services, Food Bank, and legal and tax aid through Single Stop.

3. Current number and title of course: SOC 202/ PSY 202 The Family: Change, Challenges and Crisis Intervention

4. Current course description:
This course will examine the family as a changing institution. Topics to be dealt with will include families throughout Western history, families in different societies and cultures, maleness and femaleness, the nature of love, sexuality, being single and alone, dating and courtship, cohabitation, marriage, women and work roles, parenting, family stress and conflict, divorce and remarriage.

5. Describe the nature of the revision (what are you changing?):

   Revised Course Title, Revised prerequisites, and Removal of PSY Cross-list

6. Rationale for the proposed change(s):
After a general review of several course descriptions in the department curriculum it was determined that this course is on tap for a full revision and redesign which will be undertaken in the 2018/2019 academic year. In the interim, we propose changing the title to better reflect the intent and content of the course and its future direction. In addition, as the course is no longer listed on the Forensic Psychology Major or the Psychology Minor, the Psychology department has agreed that we can drop the cross-list. In addition, we propose that the Prerequisites be changed to ENG 101, AND EITHER SOC 101 OR PSY 101 so that the course will still be easily accessible for those Psychology Majors and Sociology and Criminology majors who would like to take the course. The department curriculum committee approved the rewrite below in a meeting on 4/12/2018.

   An analysis of the problems and economic and social positions of minority groups in the United States. Power relationships among various public and private institutions, militant action organizations, service agency programs, etc., are explored in the light of their impact upon the administration of justice in urban ghetto communities, the role of minority group police officers, the community environment and the people among whom law enforcement must operate. Interactions among historical and current social forces and institutions that influence group and individual behavior within urban ghetto communities are examined. New trends in inter-group relations, emergence of new minorities, and American groups contesting for program funding and services in the urban environment.

5. Describe the nature of the revision (what are you changing?): Revised Course Title, Revised Course Description, and removal of PSY Cross-list

Approved by UCASC, Oct 19, to College Council, Nov 12, 2018
6. Rationale for the proposed change(s):
After a general review of all course descriptions in the department curriculum it was determined that this course was in need of an updated course description in order to remove problematic language and an over emphasis on policing. In addition, as the course is no longer listed on the Forensic Psychology Major or the Psychology Minor, Psychology has agreed that we should drop the PSY cross-list. Further, in order to acknowledge the sociological grounding of this course as our department teaches it, we propose changing the title to Sociology of Race and Ethnic Relations. The department curriculum committee approved the rewrite below in a meeting on 4/12/2018.

7. Text of proposed revisions (use NA, not applicable, where appropriate):
   a. Revised course description:

      This course provides a critical analysis of the social and symbolic construction of race and ethnic relations in the US. By examining the fluidity of ideas in shaping institutional policies and practices in forming those relations, the varied and similar experiences of racial and ethnic groups will be examined to explain the past as well as the persistence of inequality and injustice in society. Throughout the course students will examine both historical and contemporary issues in analyzing how race and ethnic relations have evolved, been sustained, challenged, and changed over time, with a focus on the role of such things as culture, law, public policy, and protest.

6. Rationale for the proposed change(s):

After a general review of several course descriptions in the department curriculum it was determined that this course was in need of an updated course description in order to revise language which conflated the notion of “gender” with women. The proposed Course Title and Course Description better represent the intent and the content of the course. The department curriculum committee approved the rewrite below in a meeting on 4/12/2018.

7. Text of proposed revisions (use NA, not applicable, where appropriate):

a. Revised course description:
This course examines how women negotiate and navigate the various systems of social control that influence how they are positioned in society. It offers an intersectional analysis which explores the complex ways race, gender, and class give meaning to and shape women’s diverse experiences and life chances, as they actively engage family, health, education, economic, political, and other social institutions of society. Throughout the course students will critically examine both historical and contemporary issues to analyze how women’s experiences have evolved, been sustained, challenged, and changed by examining the role of law, public policy, and protest in altering the institutions of social control that influence women’s lives.

Re: Removal of SOC Cross-listing from ANT/SOC 450

The Sociology Department Curriculum Committee requests the following:

Removal of the SOC Cross-listing for the Course ANT 450/SOC 450 (Majors Works in Deviance and Social Control)

The reasons for the removal of this cross-listing include:

1. This course is not listed on the Criminology Major, the Sociology Major or the Criminology or Minors.

2. It is currently listed on the Sociology Minor only the Sociology Minor includes all SOC courses.

3. The Pre-requisites for this course are ENG 201, senior standing, and majoring in Culture and Deviance Studies, which is not useful for our majors in the Sociology Department.

4. Sociology department faculty have not taught this course in recent memory.

This proposed change has been brought to the attention of the Major Coordinator for Culture and Deviance Studies and the Chair of the Anthropology department.

3. Rationale for the course (will be submitted to CUNY in the Chancellor’s Report). Why should this program offer this course? (Explain briefly, 1-3 paragraphs).

This course covers a vast field of economics that cannot be adequately covered in required courses. Many applications of economics will take place within the field of “international economics” and therefore should be an option for all Economics MA students.

4. Degree requirements satisfied by the course:

This course serves as an elective in the Economics MA program.

5. Has this course been taught on an experimental basis?

Yes ______ No XX____

If yes, please provide the following:

I. Semester(s) and Year(s):
II. Teacher(s):
III. Enrollment(s):
IV. Prerequisite(s):

6. Learning Outcomes:

a. What will students be able to demonstrate knowledge or understanding of or be able to do by the end of the course?

1. Students should expect to be conversant in alternative theoretical perspectives on international economic issues; able to apply them to contemporary issues and controversies.
2. Students should be able to draw upon data sources to produce their own arguments for and against theories and policies.
3. Students should have a sense of the political and economic circumstances which generate international economic theories and policies.

b. How do the course outcomes relate to the program’s outcomes?

   The course learning outcomes directly support the program learning objective that students learn how to “critically evaluate policies from multiple economic perspectives.”

c. Assessment: How will students demonstrate that they have achieved the learning outcomes of the course?

   Course grades will be determined as follows: two take-home exams (Exam 1, 40% of grade; Exam 2, 45%) and participation in class discussions (15% of grade). The exams will be distributed in class (see course outline below for dates). Extensions will not be given. You may use all course materials and your own notes in preparing this exam, but you may not talk with any of your colleagues (or anyone else) about the exam. Assessment of class participation will depend on your demonstrated preparation for class each week, and on the quality (and not primarily the quantity) of your contributions to class discussion.
7. Proposed texts and supplementary readings (including ISBNs):

Supplemental readings in Syllabus below.

Library resources for this course: Please consult with a member of the Library faculty before completing the following sections of this question. Please provide the name of the Librarian consulted below.

Kathleen Collins

8. Identify and assess the adequacy of available library resources

   a. Databases

   The electronic databases for access to electronic journals has plenty of economics peer reviewed articles for students. https://www.lib.jjay.cuny.edu/databases/economics

   b. Books, Journals and eJournals

   The library electronic journals holdings are sufficient for students to carry out successful research for this course. We will make a purchase request for the library to purchase a copy of the textbook and will arrange for a copy to be placed with the reserve loans. John Jay and CUNY currently hold a very comprehensive collection of books and journals on International Economics. In addition, a significant number of CUNY libraries have a variety of books related to all areas of economics, which students can use for research papers.

9. Identify recommended additional library resources

The Library’s Economics Database list at: https://www.lib.jjay.cuny.edu/databases/economics

10. Estimate the cost of recommended additional library resources (For new courses and programs):

   Textbook: retail price as high as $235.

11. Please list any specific bibliographic indices/databases to which students will be directed for this course. (Please check the list of databases licensed by the library before answering this question).

   Any of the databases relevant for economics are sufficient.

12. Are current College resources (e.g. Computer labs, facilities, equipment) adequate to support this course?

   Yes _____XX_______ No ________________

16. Syllabus

Attach a sample syllabus for this course, which should be based on the College’s model syllabus, found at: [OGS curriculum website]

The syllabus should include grading schemas and course policies. A class calendar with the following elements: a week-by-week listing of topics, readings with page numbers and all other assignments must be included. If this course has been taught on an experimental basis, an actual syllabus may be attached.

Course Description: This course studies alternative economics approaches to understanding economic flows across international borders. The cross-border flows of resources, people, intermediate goods, consumables, services, financial capital, physical capital and “intellectual property” are intertwined and therefore studied as aspects of one subject. Empirical evidence is examined to evaluate alternative theories of international flows and their value to policy makers. Theories arising from non-mainstream and non-western traditions are considered.

Prerequisites: None

Instructional Objectives:
1. Students should expect to be conversant in alternative theoretical perspectives on international economic issues; able to apply them to contemporary issues and controversies.
2. Students should be able to draw upon data sources to produce their own arguments for and against theories and policies.
3. Students should have a sense of the political and economic circumstances which generate international economic theories and policies.

Texts:

You can find the other required readings for the course in a few different venues. Most readings are in Blackboard (these are in the “Course Documents” folder and are marked on the syllabus with BB). You can also find many of the readings on your own by using Jstor, Google, or Google Scholar. Note that optional readings are not available through Blackboard.

Grading: Course grades will be determined as follows: two take-home exams (Exam 1, 40% of grade; Exam 2, 45%) and participation in class discussions (15% of grade). The exams will be distributed in class (see course outline below for dates). Extensions will not be given. You may use all course materials and your own notes in preparing this exam, but you may not talk with any of your colleagues (or anyone else) about the exam. Assessment of class participation will depend on your demonstrated preparation for class each week, and on the quality (and not primarily the quantity) of your contributions to class discussion.

Criteria for Assessment of Exams:
1. Complete answer to the question posed
2. Depth and breadth in knowledge of reading
3. Coherence, originality and persuasiveness of argument
4. Clarity in writing

Policies

Academic Integrity Policy
For quick definitions of violations of academic integrity go to:
For the entire policy on academic integrity please the Graduate Bulletin:
http://johnjay.jjay.cuny.edu/bulletins/graduatebulletin20132014.pdf

Plagiarism Policy
Plagiarism is the presentation of someone else's ideas, words, or artistic, scientific, or technical work as one's own creation. Using the ideas or work of another is permissible only when the original author is identified. Paraphrasing and summarizing, as well as direct quotations require citations to the original source.
Plagiarism may be intentional or unintentional. Lack of dishonest intent does not necessarily absolve a student of responsibility for plagiarism.
It is the student's responsibility to recognize the difference between statements that are common knowledge (which do not require documentation) and restatements of the ideas of others. Paraphrase, summary, and direct quotation are acceptable forms of restatement, as long as the source is cited.
Students who are unsure how and when to provide documentation are advised to consult with their instructors. The Library has free guides designed to help students with problems of documentation.

The instructor reserves the right to use plagiarism detection software such as Turnitin.com and Blackboard's SafeAssign.

Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) Policies
Qualified students with disabilities will be provided reasonable academic accommodations if determined eligible by the Office of Accessibility Services (OAS). Prior to granting disability accommodations in this course, the instructor must receive written verification of a student’s eligibility from the OAS which is located at L66 in the new building (212-237-8031). It is the student’s responsibility to initiate contact with the office and to follow the established procedures for having the accommodation notice sent to the instructor.

Incomplete Grade Policy
An Incomplete Grade will only be assigned in exceptional circumstances. See the College Bulletin for full details. http://johnjay.jjay.cuny.edu/bulletins/graduatebulletin20132014.pdf

SCHEDULE
INTRODUCTION TO THE GLOBAL ECONOMIC SYSTEM: AN OVERVIEW OF THE KEY ISSUES, DEBATES, AND PROBLEMS

Week 1
There are no required readings for the first meeting of the course. In order to set the context for our study this term, I will present an overview of the key challenges confronting the global trade system. The Coughlin piece listed below presents a wonderful summary of many of the themes that will appear in this course. Also some interesting global trade empirics are presented graphically in World Maps # 10-13 & 21.

Optional:

Krugman, Paul. 1993. “What Do Undergrads Need to Know About Trade?” The American Economic Review, Papers and Proceedings 83(2): 23-26. (Don’t worry: this is also relevant to graduate students, though the reading is nevertheless optional.)

I. THE EVOLUTION OF THE INTERNATIONAL TRADE SYSTEM: AN HISTORICAL OVERVIEW

Week 2
Lots of reading this week, which raises many important themes that will recur throughout the course.

A. The Pre-GATT World

Required:

2. Chang, Ha-Joon, “Once Industrialised, Preach Free Trade,” South Bulletin, July 30 2002, http://www.southcentre.org/index.php?option=com_content&task=view&id=559&Itemid=126. (Note: focus on the historical discussion rather than on the prescriptions that are discussed toward the end of the article. This article draws from Chang’s book, Kicking away the ladder—see optional readings below for full citation.)

Optional:

Rev. Spring 2014
Office of Graduate Studies
Williamson, Jeffrey, “Winners and Losers Over Two Centuries of Globalization,” WIDER Annual Lecture 6, World Institute for Development Economics Research, 2002. (This paper is also relevant to the discussion of unequal exchange theory in part III of the course.)

B. The Post-GATT World: The WTO and the Rise of Bi- and Multilateral Trade Regimes

Required:

5. Shadlen, Kenneth. 2005. Exchanging development for market access: Deep integration and industrial policy under multilateral and regional-bilateral trade agreements. Review of International Political Economy, 12(5), pp. 750-775. This is an important piece, and we will revisit its main themes throughout the course.

Optional:

Rev. Spring 2014
Office of Graduate Studies
1999, 477-511. (Note: do not get distracted by the technical discussion in part 2 of the article. This is also a reading where you should focus on the “big picture.”)

II. CORE TRADE THEORIES AND EMPIRICAL TESTS (4 sessions)

REVIEW SESSION:
In week 2 or 3 of the course I will hold an optional review session that will explore some of the basic ideas that inform neoclassical economics, and which are relevant to neoclassical trade theory. I'll poll the class to find the best time to hold the session. If you think you don’t really understand microeconomic theory, you should come. If you think you do understand microeconomic theory, you should definitely come.

A. Ricardian/Classical Model of Trade
Week 3
Required:
Ricardo, David. 1821. Chapter 7 “On Foreign Trade” in On the Principles of Political Economy and Taxation. London: John Murray, Third Edition. Focus only on paragraphs 7.11-7.19 (the rest of the chapter is optional, but may be of interest to those of you who have already studied IMR).
Krugman and Obstfeld, International Economics, read chapters 2-3 (8th or 9th ed), read chapters 3-4 (10th edition). (Note: SKIP any discussion of the gravity model-we will discuss that in a few weeks.)
Prasch, Robert. 1996. “Reassessing the Theory of Comparative Advantage,” Review of Political Economy 8(1): 37-55. NB: we have not yet studied the Heckscher-Ohlin model of trade (we do that next week), which he discusses in section 9 of the paper. But I think you can begin to make sense of his critique based on what you see here. This section will make more sense to you after next week's readings. For the rest, keep Krugman's arguments in mind as you read Prasch. Is Prasch susceptible to Krugman's critique?
Optional:

B. Factor Endowments, Heckscher-Ohlin, & Empirical Tests
Week 4
Required:
Krugman and Obstfeld: 9th and 10th ed., chapter 5 (skip appendix); OR 8th ed., chapter 4 (skip appendix)
Optional:

C. New Trade Theories #1: Strategic Trade Theory: Does it Matter What You Export?
Week 5

Rev. Spring 2014
Office of Graduate Studies
Required:
Optional:
Anna Maria Mayda and Dani Rodrik, “Why are Some People (and Countries) More Protectionist than Others?” European Economic Review 49, no. 6 (2005), pp. 1393-1430.

D. New Trade Theories, #2: Increasing Returns, Geography, Intra-industry Trade, Monopolistic Competition, Technology Gaps & the Gravity Model

Rev. Spring 2014
Office of Graduate Studies
Week 6
Required:

Krugman & Obstfeld, 10th ed.: Chs. 7 and (parts of) ch. 8; and section of chapter 1 on the gravity model, pp. 10-13.

NB: In ch. 8, read pp. 164-168 (stopping at “Monopolistic Competition”). This will take you through the basic model of monopoly that we discussed last week. Have your lecture notes from last week on hand as you go through this.

Then:

Then: If you’re using the 10th or the 9th ed., please find on Blackboard a few pages from the 8th edition that I’d like you to read: pp. 129 to 131, paying close attention to the lessons (the four enumerated points) on p 131, where Krugman summarizes the findings of the preceding pages.

OR:

Krugman & Obstfeld, 9th ed.: Chs. 7 and (parts of) ch. 8; and section of chapter 2 on the gravity model, pp. 11-15.

NB: In ch. 8, read pp. 155-159 (stopping at “Monopolistic Competition”). This will take you through the basic model of monopoly that we discussed last week. Have your lecture notes from last week on hand as you go through this.

Then:

Then: If you’re using the 9th ed., please find on Blackboard a few pages from the 8th edition that I’d like you to read: pp. 129 to 131, paying close attention to the lessons (the four enumerated points) on p 131, where Krugman summarizes the findings of the preceding pages.

OR:

Krugman & Obstfeld, 8th ed.:
Ch. 6 (just parts; see below) and sub-section of chapter 2 on the gravity model, pp. 15-18.

NB: In ch. 6, read pp. 114-120 top (stopping at “Monopolistic Competition”). This will take you through the basic model of monopoly that we discussed last week. Have your lecture notes from last week on hand as you go through this.

Then:
Resume reading on p. 129, at the heading "Economies of Scale and Comparative Advantage."

Pay close attention to the lessons (the four enumerated points) on p 131, where Krugman summarizes the findings of the preceding pages. Read the rest of the chapter (129-149).

IN THIS WEEK’S READINGS: Please pay close attention to the intuition behind “external economies” and “internal economies” (quick quiz: Is the clustering of firms in one industry—say, software development in Silicon Valley, an example of the former or the latter?); external economies and trade, and interregional trade and geography. All of this is intuitively accessible, thankfully, but also important in understanding how economists make sense of contemporary trade patterns. We also turn here to “internal economies” which yield monopolies (and other corporate forms that diverge from the perfectly competitive firm).

THEN READ:
Palley, Tom. 2006. “Rethinking Trade and Trade Policy: Gomory, Baumol, and Samuelson on Comparative Advantage.” Levy Economics Institute Public Policy Brief No. 86. (As you read the Palley essay I want to draw your attention to one particularly important argument: it concerns the DYNAMIC and ENDURING effects of strategic trade policy (such as currency devaluation). The relevant arguments appear from about p. 17 through pp. 20-21. Emphasis is placed on the long-run effects of even temporary strategic trade policy. In Palley’s view, the arguments relate directly to the situation facing US-China conflict today.

Optional:

EXAM 1:
III. CONTEMPORARY DEBATES IN INTERNATIONAL THEORY AND POLICY

The Debate over Free Trade versus Fair Trade
Week 7
Required:
Krugman, Paul. “In Praise of Cheap Labor.” (If you’d like to read more Krugman on this topic, see the Blackboard for list of articles and links. To see how his thinking has evolved, see his 2007 piece).
DeMartino, George. 2011. “Free Trade or Social Tariffs.”
Optional:

OR
DeMartino, 2000. Global Economy, Global Justice, London: Routledge. Chapter 6. (This is a more extensive treatment of the issues that are raised in the previous article. I will lecture in class on the conflict between moral objectivism and cultural relativism that arises in the context of this debate.)
Optional:
Gitterman, Daniel P. A race to the bottom, a race to the top or the march to a minumum floor? 2002. UCIAS Edited volume 1, Dynamics of regulatory change.
Braunstein, E. and Epstein, G., “How Much Bargaining Power Do 1.3 Billion Consumers Have?

Rev. Spring 2014
Office of Graduate Studies
95

Flows and Gender

Week 8

Required:

Elson, Diane, Caren Grown, and Nilufer Cagatay. 2007. “Mainstream, heterodox and feminist trade theory,” in Irene van Staveren, Diane Elson, Caren Grown and Nilufer Cagatay (eds.) The Feminist Economics of Trade. London and New York: Routledge, pp. 33-52. (NB: the section entitled 'Heterodox Trade Theories: Absolute Advantage and Capital Accumulation' draws on literatures that we've not studied in this course—post-Keynesian and Marxian theory. My sense is that this section doesn't provide enough detail to be accessible to those of you who haven't studied these theoretical traditions. So you can skip this section (or skim it). More important to focus on the section that follows: 'Feminist-heterodox theories of trade,' which begins on page 44. Pages 44-48 are most important, in fact.

Optional:

Trade Liberalization, Growth, Poverty and Inequality
Week 9
Required:
Rodrik, Dani. 2001. The Global Governance of Trade as if Development Really Mattered. UNDP
Background Paper. (Rodrik provides a very nice Executive Summary at the beginning of this article. Read that first, and then re-read it as you move from section to section of the paper since he provides a nice summary in the ES of each section of the paper.)
Koujianou Goldberg, Pinelopi and Nina Pavcnik, “Distributional Effects of Globalization in Developing Countries,” Journal of Economic Literature 45, no. 1 (March 2007), pp. 39-82. (You can skip section 2 entirely—it focuses on definitional and measurement issues which, though important, are not directly relevant for this course. Focus in particular on section 3 (the empirical findings on the connection between trade and inequality); and sections 5-6 (you can just skim section 4). Section 5 includes the authors’ attempts to explain the empirical findings of section 3. And in a magnanimous gesture, the authors then summarize the central points of the paper in section 6.
Bivens, Josh, 2014 (Dec. 15), “New Trade Agreements Will Take Center Stage in 2015-So Will Bad Arguments on Their Behalf,” blog post to Working Economics, Economic Policy Institute. If you have the time, you may wish to read the article by Glesser referenced in this blog post (see hyperlink to it in Bivens).
Optional:

OTHER ISSUES (We'll choose one of the following for Week 10):
China and Global Trade
First, read these two short academic articles:
1. Rodrik, Dani. 2006. “What’s so special about China’s exports?” Rodrik argues (and try to demonstrate) that China has achieved a much higher level of sophistication in its exports than one would expect of a country at its level of GDP/capita. He then claims that this is very important for its economic development; and he then tries to explain how it has managed this achievement. Pay closest attention to the latter two points. (For an alternative view, see Daniel Lederman and William F. Maloney of the World Bank, “Does What You Export matter? In search of empirical guidance for industrial policies,” Sept. 27, 2010. In particular, see the introduction and section 2.)
A year ago during a trade class I interviewed via conference call a recent Korbel alum who was then working in trade for the Jamaican government. When asked about the challenges facing Jamaica in its efforts to develop, she answered “CHINA!” She explained that Jamaica was losing its comparative advantage in low-skilled manufacturing, and was being forced to return to primary good exports.
The piece by Gallagher, Moreno-Bird and Porzencanski explores this matter systematically, focusing on the case of Mexico. Mexico is far more industrialized than Jamaica, and would seem by virtue of its level of development and proximity to the US (remember the gravity model) to be insulated from competition with China. This article suggests that this is not true—that Mexican exports are under threat from China. Think about the implications for developing countries more generally, as you weigh the arguments and evidence.
3. Then read the collection of articles that I’ve also placed on the Blackboard, in the China folder (or as many of these as you have time for):
3. Naturally, we need to read some Krugman. Read “Chinese New Year,” (1/1/2010) and “Taking on China,” (Sept. 30, 2010), both from the NYT.
These next three articles give a glimpse of the complicated relationship between US businesses and China.
10. Listen to this (depressing?) NPR story (July 2011) about a US company that has broken into the Chinese market:
Optional:
Here is the link to the video (about 7 mins) on China’s development and trade strategies, and its effects on other countries. "How China is shaping the world":

Trade and Capital Controls

Council on Foreign Relations, “U.S. Trade and Investment Policy,” Washington, at http://www.cfr.org/trade/us-trade-investment-policy/p25737 See the additional view by Nancy Birdsell, James W. Owens and Laura D’Andrea Tyson, stating that “in any future bilateral trade agreements with developing countries, the United States ought to recognize, as has the International Monetary Fund, that complete and immediate opening of capital markets is not necessarily in the interest of all countries all the time.”

The Trans-Pacific and Trans-Atlantic Partnerships

Optional:

These issues are unfolding, and there is not much in the way of good analyses of them to date. I will likely add materials to this topic if you select it.

The WTO and Food Security

Optional:

3. Rationale for the course (will be submitted to CUNY in the Chancellor’s Report). Why should this program offer this course? (Explain briefly, 1-3 paragraphs).

The Economics MA is an “applied economics” program and therefore needs a course dedicated to student production of original research where they can demonstrate their ability to apply economic theories and methodologies.

4. Degree requirements satisfied by the course:

This course is a required “core” course in the Economics MA curriculum to be taken at the end of the program.

5. Has this course been taught on an experimental basis?

   Yes _______ No ___ X____

   If yes, please provide the following:
   I. Semester(s) and Year(s):
   II. Teacher(s):
   III. Enrollment(s):
   IV. Prerequisite(s):

6. Learning Outcomes:

   a. What will students be able to demonstrate knowledge or understanding of or be able to do by the end of the course?

   - Students will engage in peer-editing.
   - Students will produce and deliver conference quality presentations of their research.
   - Students will produce publishable research.

   b. How do the course outcomes relate to the program’s outcomes?

   The emphasis on completing a manuscript worthy of peer-review publication relates to the program’s learning objective that students “Conduct applied economic research suitable for government and nonprofit advocacy organizations.”

   The emphasis on peer editing relates to the program’s learning objective that students “Produce effective communications.”

   c. Assessment: How will students demonstrate that they have achieved the learning outcomes of the course?

   Grades will be based on the final paper and presentation.
7. Proposed texts and supplementary readings (including ISBNs):
None

Library resources for this course: Please consult with a member of the Library faculty before completing the following sections of this question. Please provide the name of the Librarian consulted below.

   Kathleen Collins

8. Identify and assess the adequacy of available library resources

   a. Databases

   The electronic databases for access to electronic journals has plenty of economics peer reviewed articles for students. https://www.lib.jjay.cuny.edu/databases/economics

   b. Books, Journals and eJournals

   The library electronic journals holdings are sufficient for students to carry out successful research for this course. John Jay and CUNY currently hold a very comprehensive collection of books and journals on economics. In addition, a significant number of CUNY libraries have a variety of books related to all areas of economics, which students can use for research papers.

9. Identify recommended additional library resources

   The Library’s Economics Database list at: https://www.lib.jjay.cuny.edu/databases/economics

10. Identify recommended additional library resources

    None

11. Estimate the cost of recommended additional library resources (For new courses and programs): None

12. Please list any specific bibliographic indices/databases to which students will be directed for this course. (Please check the list of databases licensed by the library before answering this question).

   Any of the databases relevant for economics are sufficient.

13. Are current College resources (e.g. Computer labs, facilities, equipment) adequate to support this course?

And it is hereby

RESOLVED, the John Jay College Council Bylaws, Article I, Section 2, are hereby amended as set forth in the edited Bylaws, attached hereto and incorporated herein, and it is further RESOLVED, the Secretary of the John Jay College Council is hereby authorized to take necessary actions to implement these resolutions.

I. College Council Committees

1. General Provisions:
   i. Unless otherwise specified in the John Jay Charter of Governance ("Charter") or these Bylaws, the Faculty Senate, Higher Education Officer Council and Student Council shall each elect or appoint representatives from among its constituency group to College Council committees. The names of those elected or appointed to College Council committees by each constituency group shall be forwarded to the College Council for a vote of ratification at the next regularly scheduled meeting.
   ii. Except where a committee chairperson is designated in the Charter of Governance or these Bylaws, the President shall appoint a convenor for each committee.
   iii. Except where a committee chairperson is designated in the Charter of Governance or these Bylaws, at its first meeting of the academic year, each committee shall elect a chairperson and a vice chairperson.
   iv. Each committee shall meet at least once during the academic year.
   v. The committee chairperson shall submit a schedule of meetings to the Executive Committee at the beginning of each academic semester. The chairperson of each committee shall enter the meeting dates onto the College’s electronic calendar.
   vi. Subject to the provisions of state law, all College Council committee meetings are open to the public.
   vii. All committees shall keep minutes of their meetings, including attendance, and submit them to the Secretary of the College Council within 14 days of approval.
   viii. The chairperson of each committee shall submit an annual written summary of its activities to the Secretary of the College Council no later than 14 days before the last scheduled meeting of the College Council each academic year. Each summary shall include a report of the attendance of committee members.
   ix. The Faculty Senate, Council of Chairs, Higher Education Officers Council and the Student Council may refer items to College Council committee chairpersons for the committee’s consideration.
as agenda items. Copies of all such items shall be simultaneously submitted to the Executive Committee.

x. College Council committee members shall serve for a term of one (1) year except for ex officio members and except when otherwise set forth in the Charter of Governance or these Bylaws.

xi. Administrative members of committees shall be those named, or those holding equivalent positions and functions, as determined by the President.

xii. When a vacancy on a College Council committee occurs, as determined by the Executive Committee, the Executive Committee shall notify the constituency. If 30 days after notification the constituency fails to elect an interim representative, the Executive Committee shall appoint a representative from the affected constituency. A member serving to fill a vacancy shall serve only to complete the regular term of the member he or she has replaced.

xiii. No person shall participate in more than one constituency election for College Council committee representatives.

xiv. No student may serve on more than two (2) College Council committees, unless he or she serves by virtue of his or her office.

2. Standing Committees:
   a. Executive Committee:

The Executive Committee shall consist of the following members: President, chairperson; Provost and Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs; Senior Vice President for Finance and Administration; Vice President for Student Development; Vice President for Enrollment Management and Student Affairs; seven (7) members of the full-time faculty as defined in Article I, Section 3.a.i of the Charter; two (2) higher education officers; and three (3) students.

The faculty, higher education officers and student representatives shall be elected by the College Council from among its members in September of each year. From June 1 until such time as the College Council holds this election, there shall be an Interim Executive Committee which shall consist of the following members: President, chairperson; Provost and Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs; Senior Vice President for Finance and Administration; Vice President for Student Development; Vice President for Enrollment Management and Student Affairs; the President and Vice President of the Faculty Senate; two (2) other members of the Faculty Senate; the President and Vice President of the Higher Education Officers Council; and the President and Vice President of the Student Council. The faculty, higher education officer and student members of the Interim Executive Committee shall nominate College Council members of their respective constituencies as candidates for election to the Executive Committee.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE COLLEGE COUNCIL

NOVEMBER 12, 2018

FIRST READING

AMENDING THE BYLAWS TO CLARIFY GPA REQUIREMENTS FOR HONORS PRIZES AND AWARDS AND UNDERGRADUATE CURRICULUM AND ACADEMIC STANDARDS COMMITTEES

WHEREAS, the John Jay College Charter of Governance, Article I, Section 9, establishes committees as College Council committees, and

WHEREAS, the John Jay College Council Bylaws, Article I, Section 2, establishes memberships for the College Council Committees, and

WHEREAS, the Committee on Undergraduate Curriculum and Academic Standards defines the requirements of student membership to be three (3) students, each of whom have a cumulative grade point average of at least 3.0, and

WHEREAS, the Committee on Honors, Prizes, and Awards also defines the requirements of student membership to be three (3) students who have a minimum cumulative grade point average of 3.0, and

WHEREAS, neither of the two aforementioned committee descriptions specifies whether or not the grade point average of at least a 3.0 must be from John Jay College, leaving room for ambiguity of whether or not that GPA can be from another college for first year and transfer students, and

WHEREAS, the College Council wishes to amend the language of these student memberships for Undergraduate Curriculum and Academic Standards Committee and the Honors, Prizes, and Awards Committee to reflect that the student grade point average of at least a 3.0 must be a John Jay College grade point average for a minimum of one semester, for the following reasons:

- In order to be a voting member for academic curriculum and policies for John Jay Students, students should have at least one semester of experience with John Jay College Curriculum, as college policies and curriculum vary within different institutions, and
- In order to be a voting member for Honors, Prizes, and Awards that are given directly to John Jay College Graduates for merit, status, and activity within the John Jay Campus, students should have at least one semester of experience on the campus in order to grant these awards.
- It has been common practice for our student representation on both committees to be accepted contingent on having a John Jay grade point average of at least a 3.0.

And it is hereby,

RESOLVED, the Undergraduate Curriculum and Academic Standards Committee Membership language in the John Jay College Council Bylaws, Article I, Section 2, Paragraph B, is hereby amended to state, “three (3) students, each of whom have a John Jay College cumulative grade point average of at least 3.0 for a minimum of one semester,” and

RESOLVED, the Honors, Prizes, and Awards Committee Membership language in the John Jay College Council Bylaws, Article I, Section 2, Paragraph K, is hereby amended to state, “three (3) students who each has a minimum John Jay College grade point average of 3.0 for a minimum of one semester,” and it is further, RESOLVED, the Secretary of John Jay College Council is hereby authorized to take necessary actions to implement these resolutions.

Bylaw GPA requirements for Students
